Subpoenaed tapes subject of debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of two broad impeachment articles behind it, the House Judiciary Committee opened debate today on whether President Nixon should be charged as well for his refusal to turn over subpoenaed tape recordings and other materials to its inquiry.

The first impeachment article to be proposed by a Republican was offered by Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, the minority's second-ranking member.

The article said Nixon "has failed without lawful cause or excuse" to produce the materals from 147 conversations which the committee sought in eight subpoenas issued during April, May and June.

"The prime example of stonewalling is right there," McClory told the committee on its sixth day of nationally broadcast debate.

In a bid to speed up proceedings, the panel agreed to a two-hour limit for general debate on the proposal.

Other proposed articles on Nixon's personal finances and on the secret bombing of Cambodia were to be introduced later. Committee members were not sure if they could finish their deliberations by tonight.

The committee climaxed a 12-hour session Monday night by approving, 28 to 10, an article charging Nixon with violating his oath of office and his constitutional duties.

McClory predicted in advance of debate that his proposed third article would be approved 22 to 16.

"Congress itself is pitted against the executive," he said in defense of his proposal. He said executive privilege "has no place in an impeachment inquiry."

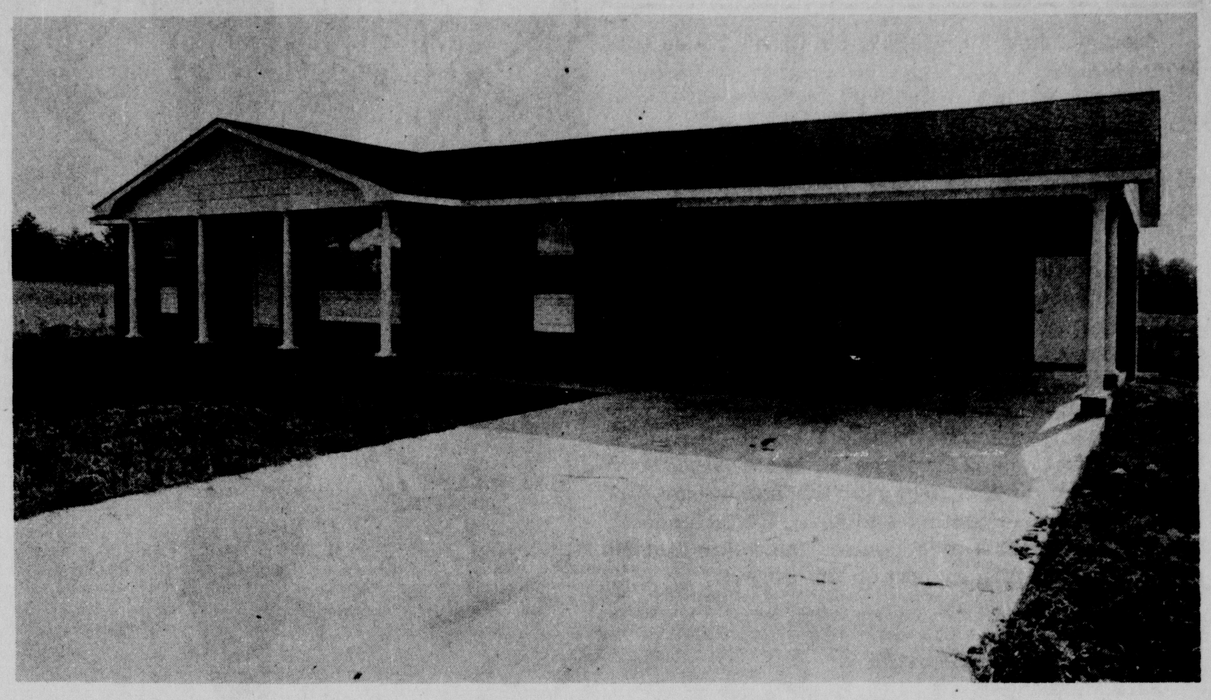

McClory's swing to the proimpeachment side Monday in the abuse of power debate produced the most one-sided substantive vote of the public deliberations.

Seven Republicans joined the 21 committee Democrats in support of the article, which many of them judged to be stronger than the obstruction of justice article approved Saturday, 27-11.

"Just as a consistent abuse of power holds more danger for the republic than a single criminal act, so is this a far more serious charge than in the article already adopted," said Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., a leading supporter of Article II.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., called the committee's action "a victory for justice" and said history may compare it to the challenge of the English barons that led to the signing of the Magna Carta in 1215, a milestone in the growth of political liberty in England.

President Nixon's supporters on the panel viewed the proceedings darkly. "I'm deeply concerned for the future of the presidency," said Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio.

Student-built house to be sold by bid

Students enrolled in the building trades class at the Sikeston Area Vocational School have built a new home at 704 Linden Lane, which will be open for public inspection Saturday and Sunday. The three-bedroom house has about 1,700 square feet of floor space and features a two-car carport. The house will be sold by bids which may be submitted to the board of education office. Ambulance agreement is reached

BENTON — The Scott County Court announced Monday that it had made a tentative agreement with George F. Rouse of Cape Girardeau for ambulance service in northern Scott County. Rouse is owner and operator of a private ambulance service.

The county judges said they will sign contract with Rouse for ambualnce services until Jan. 1, 1975. At that time, the schedule of prices will be negotiated.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the court has been notified by a member of the Scott County Soil and Water Conservation District that the project to clean out a drainage ditch and two creeks in Scott County has been approved, but the court is not satisfied with the amount of money allocated.

Lankford said several members of the county SCS board also believe the amount of money allocated is insufficient.

According to Lankford,

Kitchen boasts of careful work

The kitchen gives a hint of the careful work and special features Sikeston Area Vocational School students put into the house they built at 704 Linden Lane. The kitchen features walnut-stained ash cabinets and more storage space than the normal kitchen has because the cabinets extend all the way to the ceiling and do not have the 16-inch drop most factory-built cabinets do. The kitchen comes complete with a stove, dishwasher and garbage disposal unit. (Daily Standard photo)

Races develop for 4 Scott County offices

BENTON — Races have developed for Democratic nominations for four Scott County offices in the Aug. 6 primary election.

The offices for which races have developed include all three positions on the County Court and the county treasurer's post.

Only one Democratic township committeeman position had more than one candidate.

Louie Hirschowitz of Oran, the present second district associate judge of the County Court, is seeking the office of presiding judge and will face opposition from Bill Lewis of Sikeston.

Les D. Lankford of Chaffee, currently serving as presiding judge, chose this year to run for second district associate judge. He is opposed by Melvin Glueck of Illmo and Donald E. Vance of Chaffee.

Eldon Ziegenhorn of Sikeston, incumbent first district associate judge, faces opposition from Arthur O. Bruce of Sikeston.

Hess Porter of Benton, incumbent county treasurer, is opposed by J. W. (Dub) Shuffit of Sikeston.

Candidates who are unopposed for Democratic renomination are:

Prosecuting attorney; James E. Moore III of Sikeston.

Circuit clerk: Lynn F. Ingram of Sikeston

Recorder of deeds: John J. Bollinger of Benton.

County clerk: Bob Kielhofner of Chaffee.

County collector: Tom Marshall of Sikeston.

Probate judge: John H. Sides of Sikeston.

Magistrate judge: Lloyd G. Briggs of Sikeston.

The the exception of the two associate judges positions, all of the offices are for four-year terms. Associate judges are elected for two-year terms.

Unopposed for Democratic committeeman and committeewoman positions are: Linus Huck and Wanda Dodson, Commerce Township; Kenneth Raney and Cornelia Shuford, Kelso Township; Thomas Arnold and Dorothy Voges, Moreland Township; Jam Mac Emerson and Ava Emerson, Morley Township; Ben F. Marshall and Glenda Evans, Sandywoods Township; Paul J. Crader and Elsie Streeter, Sylvania Township; and Boyd Duff and Ethel Duff, Tywappity Township.

In Richland Township, a three-way race has developed for committeeman involving James G. "Pete" Malone, C. E. Felker and Danny Byrd. Mrs. Lena Felker is unopposed for committeewoman.

Unopposed for Republican committeeman and committeewoman positions are:

Robert Jenkins and Dana Jenkins, Sikeston ward 1, precinct 1; Fred Steward Jr. and Mary Doggett, Sikeston ward 2, precinct 1; Eugene Potashnick and Lois Johnson, Sikeston ward 3, precinct 1; Lynn Colley and

Revised budget is approved

EAST PRAIRIE — The East Prairie R-2 School District board of education Monday night approved a revised budget for the 1974-75 school year. Total expenditures are estimated at $1,695,132 and total receipts a $1,640,490 for a deficit in the amount of $54,642. Supt. Gerald McElrath said the estimated deficit was due to a loss of students in the district and the inflationary cost of material and supplies.

A contract was awarded to Lewis Oil Co. of East Prairie who submitted a bid of 33 cents per gallon. Other bids received were MFA Oil Co., 34.8 cents, and Standard Oil Co., 35.6 cents. All bids exclused tax.

Webb Service Agency was awarded a contract for vehicle insurance on a bid of $2,856. Reeves Insurance and Real Estate Agency submitted a bid of $3,608.44 and Douglas Insurance Agency, $6,975.

Hart's Bakery and Turner Dairy of Sikeston were awarded contracts for bread and milk.

The board voted to increase the prices of lunches five cents for the 1974-75 school year, due to the increasing prices of meat and other foods. New prices will be: R. A. Doyle Elementary School, 30 cents and A. J. Martin Elementary School and A. L. Webb Junior High School, 45 cents.

The board elected Marie Baker as secretary and L. S. Watson as treasurer for the coming school year.

McElrath reported on the progress of work being done on district school buildings. The board agreed to tour the buildings at next month's meeting to view improvements made.

The board also designated First Bank of East Prairie as the depository for the 1974-75 school funds.

Sikeston building trades class holds open house

Open houses are not unusual, but an event coming up Saturday and Sunday is a bit out of the ordinary because of the house which will be open for public inspection. The house — at 704 Linden Lane — was built by students enrolled in the building trades class at the Sikeston Area Vocational School.

Instead of sitting in a classroom studying methods and techniques of building a house, high school juniors and seniors enrolled in Wayne Land's vocational building trades class spent their classroom hours actually building a house.

During the 1973-74 school year, a house with 1,700 square feet of floor space and a two-car carport was constructed on an 80 by 140 foot lot on Linden Lane. The Sikeston Area Vocational School will display the home in an open house from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Bids are now being accepted for purchase of the house and will be opened at the Sept. 10 meeting of the Sikeston R-6 School District board of education. Bids may be submitted to Charles Simpson at the board of education office. The school reserves the right to reject all bids.

The building trades class is taught as a two-year course, beginning with students entering the 11th grade. In addition to gaining on-the-job experience through actual construction of a home, hours are also spent in the classroom studying building details.

Students participate in most of the decisions concerning construction of the house. The home built this year has about 250 more square feet of floor space than the one built during the 1972-73 school year.

The careful work done by students is readily apparent on a tour through the house. The totally electric house — a three-bedroom unit —

Risco man claims he and another were beaten in New Madrid jail

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid County jail has been linked with beatings, liquor and drugs by a man who has claimed he and an associate were beaten by prisoners while being held at the jail May 30.

Jim New, 31, of Risco told The Daily Standard that he and Terry Mallett, 21, of rural Malden were arrested between 8 and 9 p.m. May 30 by New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff Fred Rowe. He said they were arrested while sitting in Mallett's car outside the jail preparing to seek permission to visit John Bunting of Risco who had been charged with sale of drugs.

"Rowe came up to us and asked for identification," New claimed. "We showed him our driver's license, and he told us: 'You are under arrest!' We asked for what and he said for investigation, and we again asked him for what and he said 'just investigation.'"

The pair claim they were not given their rights and were not allowed a phone call. "I asked if we get to make a phone call, and Rowe would not comment," New said.

"They searched us and put everything in an envelope and took us upstairs and put us in a cell with five other prisoners," he said.

After being in jail about 10 minutes, New said Dwight Butler and Herman Dunn, who reportedly were serving as trusties, came up to the cell and called three of the prisoners to one side and gave the order for the beating.

"Butler told them (prisoners named Chappel, Smith and Glen Brimer) that 'they' want Terry and John beaten," New related. "Brimer turned around, pointed and said: "Is that Terry and John,' and Dunn replied, 'Yeah, that's them."

The beating ensued as Butler and Dunn left.

"Terry got hit first," New noted. "I don't know how long it lasted, but I had the bruises to show for it. Terry had claw marks on his neck as they hit him more to the body."

New, who works for the General Motors Assembly Division in St. Louis and had a cast on his left leg at the time of the beating due to a motorcycle accident, claimed his cast had been stepped on and kicked numerous times

We have received a copy of a letter sent to Senator Thomas Eagleton concerning another entry to Sikeston and Miner from Interstate 55. We think this is a worthwhile project. The original plan for Interstate 55 was for exits at Interstate 57, Highway 62 (Malone) and county road HH north of Miner. We need this new exit at county road HH to help eliminate the heavy traffic on Highway 62 (Malone). There are over 25,000 cars per day on this road and the number of cars traveling this road continues to grow. We recommend the citizens of this area contact the below named officials and get their support on this project:

THOSE STATE FIRINGS

Gov. Bond's use of state reorganization as a reason for replacing numerous members of state commissions is a mistake in terms of public policy, if not of law.

The Governor has replaced half of the Conservation Commission, though that bipartisan commission is considered one of the finest in the country. He has reappointed only four of the six members of the Highway Commission, another excellent agency, and has similarly made changes in the Mental Health Commission and Board of Education.

The basis for these changes is an opinion by an assistant attorney general that executive branch reorganization created new departments, so the Governor could name new departmental officers. This opinion should be tested in court. The Legislature gave no indication that it expected reorganization to lead to wholesale dismissals, especially in established commissions whose members' terms had not expired.

As it is the Governor has laid himself open to Democratic charges that he is remaking agencies to his own liking. Both the bipartisanship and staggered terms of major commissions were designed just so as to prevent a governor from exerting immediate control over them, and to isolate them from politics. Some of the changes in Jefferson City look too much like the kind of politics Gov. Bond has disavowed.

WORLD, POLITICS AND ECONOMICS

According to a world economic service, there are any number of political leaders, government economists and finance ministers throughout the world who should be the target for their citizens' outrage for poor performance.

But perhaps the primary target should be John Maynard Keynes who many give credit (or blame) for the discovery that employment can be boosted and corporate growth stimulated through the expansion of debt. The expansion phase of the debt cycle is fun. One might even call it exhilarating. Companies or economies can grow in leaps and bounds as they finance their growth by incurring more and more debt. But there is a limit to the amount of debt that can be created. There comes a point where there must be a slowdown in the creation of debt. Heaven forbid that there ever is a period when these mammoth debts have to be paid off. If the creation of debts has a multiplier affect on economic activity on the upward side, isn't it also likely that increasing debt liquidation can have a snowballing effect when the financial situation begins to deteriorate? The Keynes disciples don't like to answer that one.

There are early warning signs of the danger facing the world economies at this time. Italy's plight is a case in point. The Italian government has announced that they had been running a balance of payments deficit of $1 billion a month for the first five months of the year and they expect the deficit to total $10 billion for 1974. Many people will say, "Who cares? The Italian government has had a record of instability for many years and this type of performance is to be expected." We don't agree. We've been told and believe that the situation in Italy is important. For one, it is symptomatic of the problems facing all major nations, and there is an important link between all world economies in this era of vastly expanded foreign trade.

Because of the vast expansion of world trade in recent decades, we are today dealing with what can be called a "world economy." No nation is an island in itself. Each nation plays its role in the world scene, but is also dependent on what other nations are doing. Its actions also affect the economic situation in other countries.

As an example, major trading nations see a situation where most of the dollars earned through export sales now must go to a handful of nations providing them with petroleum. There are no funds left to pay for their own import requirements. They have few alternatives. They can take steps to discourage imports. They also can mount an aggressive export drive. But who is going to buy these exports when every other nation is faced with the same problem and is trying to cut down on imports? It merely becomes a vicious circle that the American people should realize and face up to, even if our government wants to soft-pedal it.

ONLY FOLLOWING WHOSE ORDERS?

If some poor jerk down at the bottom of the chain of political command had been saddled with all the blame for Watergate and the case had then been called closed by the very higher-ups who had employed him, there would have been a great outcry from the American people.

Yet there was no such outcry when one lowly first lieutenant was convicted for the My Lai massacre while all those above him were either exonerated or not touched at all.

True, there was an intense emotional reaction when Lt. William L. Calley, alone of all those implicated in My Lai, found him guilty of murdering "not less than 22 Vietnamese." Thus it is not surprising that there were few protests when the Army later cut the sentence to 20 years, or that there are few protests now that Secretary of the Army Howard H. Callaway has further reduced it to 10 years, making Calley eligible for early parole.

What is surprising is that there has been little reaction to Callaway's finding of "mitigating circumstances." —that is, that Calley may not have been aware that he did not have to obey an illegal order.

Who issued the illegal order?

My Lai and Watergate cannot be compared, of course. The one happened far away in a dubious war we would just as soon bury in history. Such things , we say, happen in wars.

The other, however, happened right here, and it struck at the very roots of our political institution. It cannot be ignored.

But history will judge America in both cases. Whatever the fate of Calley, the real judgment in his tragedy is yet to be made.

IS AMERICA REALLY ALL THAT "WASTEFUL"?

Americans are so used to being criticized, or to criticizing themselves, for their affluence that they have come to take it almost for granted that they alone of all the world's peoples are guilty of reckless exploitation of the world's resources.

Rather than being a credit to our technology, ingenuity and energy, our high standard of living has lately become something to reproach ourselves for, a sign of national selfishness — or so some critics would have it.

Yet if affluence is now to be equated with waste, America may actually be among the least "affluent" of nations. For while we may consume a disproportionate share of the world's resources, our consumption on the whole, is efficient, is conducive to even great efficiency, and is a contribution to the progress of the world.

Paradoxically, a nation like India, surely the world's poorest for its size, becomes in these terms truly "affluent."

In that country, millions of sacred cows roam the cities and countryside, consuming resources not adequate to feed the human population, to which 13 million are added each year. There, too, the inefficiencies of a government committed to thorough- going control of every aspect of the economy have barely enabled India to hold its own in the face of population growth.

The spectre of mass famine looms again in the subcontinent, and once again it is the "wasteful" United States, which sent $10 billion in aid between 1950 and 1971, that India is again calling on for help.

Chile, once one of the most stable countries in South America, was brought to the brink of economic collapse by the wasteful socialistic experiments of the late President Allende.

Those countries which practice slash- and - burn agriculture, turning forestland into desert after a few years, or which pour money into prestige items like steel mills or armies while having to import the basic necessities, are guilty of far greater waste than Americans, with all their air - conditioners and high- powered cars.

Even the Soviet Union, after a half- century of supposedly rational state control of the means of production, has still not begun to approach the ability of the American farmer to utilize the land efficiently, and despite its vaunted technology is still unable to provide its people with the kinds of consumer goods available even to the poorest American.

Rather than being a mark of virtue, as those American youths who like to play at being poor seem to believe, national backwardness is in many cases really a mark of national folly.

It is no doubt true that the world will simply be unable to support an expected population of six billion by the end of the century on a scale presently enjoyed by Americans.

It is also true that Americans have wasted much, especially of nonrenewable hydrocarbon sources of energy. But we have begun to realize this, and to take steps to utilize resources more efficiently, and to develop substitute ones.

Whether technology can win the race against soaring world population and finite resources, or whether we will all eventually be reduced to a level of living hopefully somewhat higher than that of India, is the burning question in these last decades of the 20th century.

But those nations who indict America for exploiting the poor of the world and could do worse than copy some of our "wasteful" ways.

FREE MARKET CALLED BEST TO END CRISIS

Secretary of Commerce Frederick B. Dent is against rigid governmental controls on the economy.

He says in a Commerce Today article the oil industry needs the discipline and efficiency imposed by the free market. "Take away that discipline and efficiency, and you have to substitute omniscience, an attribute that is sorely lacking in men and managers."

"Considering the spectacular success we have had with the free enterprise, free market system through out history," the Secretary said, "any suggestion to dismantle it, even in part, or to violate and disrupt its functioning through ever more rigid controls, is a mark of desperation that betrays a fool's reasoning."

THE UNWISDOM OF NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE

The Rand Corporation of California recently issued a report analyzing the likely results of the national health insurance schemes currently being proposed by the Administration and by Sen. Edward Kennedy. Rand's objective analysis indicates that these schemes would do more harm than good.

The report predicts that doctors and clinics would be swamped if such a program were enacted. Many people, used to treating minor illnesses and problems at home, would decide to see a doctor instead since the "government is paying for it." Patients would therefore experience longer delays in receiving appointments and longer lines in doctors' offices.

Faced with more patients, physicians would have less time with each patient, resulting in a lowering of the quality of medical care. At the same time, based on our experience with Medicare and Medicaid programs, we could expect physicians' fees to skyrocket.

The Rand report also denies claims of national health insurance supporters that socialized medicine would increase life expectancy. The report points out that many of the factors causing early death, such as smoking, alcholism and accidents, "are little affected by the availability of health services." In addition, diseases such as cardiovascular disease and cancer "are not dramatically influenced by current forms of therapy."

The report concludes: "Provision of additional health care is not likely to influence mortality statistics..." In fact, by crowding doctors' offices and lowering the quality of care, socialized medicine could well produce the opposite effect.

Inflation Cop-Out?
How Big Federal Bureaucrats Make Petty Cash of U. S. Budget's Billions

There's no reason for the national budget -- the people's money -- to be a murky, almost unintelligible, set of volumes. Why is it so arcane, why is public spending suffering from financial elephantiasis? Will the U. S. really be spending a trillion dollars a year by the onrushing '80s? I asked all these questions, and more, of the one man who should have some answers, Roy Ash, Assistant to the President. Here is his reply written epecially for this column:

By Roy L. Ash
Director, Office of Management and Budget

WASHINGTON — In my time in Washington, I have learned one of the basic principles of spending the taxpayers' money. Everybody wants the total amount spent to be lower, but nobody on the receiving end wants the cut to come out of his piece of the pie. You might say, everybody wants to go to heaven, but nobody wants to die.

I have rarely appeared before a congressional committee concerning the economy without hearing a speech about the need for economy in government. But the same committee member usually then urges full funding or additional funding for some particular program which he believes to be of paramount importance.

This is not hypocrisy, it is a question of perspective. Everyone is convinced that his project is indispensable. But someone, somewhere, has to put all the pieces together and come up with a total budget we can live with.

Until now, this has been done by the executive brance and, as it happens, by the Office of Management and Budget. That doesn't always make me the most popular man in Washington.

But from the viewpoint of the people who pay the taxes and the people who are hurt by inflation, OMB's role is a positive and very necessary role.

Thanks to the new Budget Reform Act, we hope to get a better "handle" on government spending in the future than has been possible until now. This act places appropriate responsibility on the Congress to face up to the realities of fiscal policy and the realities of budgeting. In the future, Congress will be required to vote appropriations only in the context of a total spending ceiling -- which Congress inself must set.

President Nixon has been trying to get this kind of reform ever since he entered the White House. It gives Congress an opportunity to do something more than orate about government spending. And it should prove most helpful to the President in holding down the expenditure of taxpayers' money and in dampening inflation.

President Nixon entered the White House in 1969 convinced by his years of experience in the legislative and executive branches that government reform was urgently needed. Wasteful duplication, overlapping and cross-purposing of federal programs were rampant throughout the system; and the national government was becoming so swollen in size and power as to overbalance the state and local governments and distort the whole federal concept on which the Republic was founded.

With literally thousands of laws on the federal statute books, and government daily becoming more complex and difficult to manage, the President recognized that he had only three choices in the conduct of the public business' to dictate, to abrogate or to delegate.

Wisely, he chose to delegate, to restore a proper share of resources and authority to the state and local governments, as well as to bring better management into the federal structure so that he could delegate to the fullest there.

OMB's responsibility is not merely to advise the President on spending levels for the various government programs but on the effectiveness of those programs.

I am sure we have all seen or heard of examples of wasteful government programming. Some of them are almost beyond belief.

Today, we are passing through a time of turmoil and change. Inflation is a continuing and disturbing threat to all of us. When we talk about government spending and the way it affects the economy, we are not engaging in doubledome rhetoric. We are talking ultimately about the effect on production of goods and services, the pay you take home and the price you pay for food and shelter and all the other necessities.

The President has said many times that fiscal restraint is one of our most essential weapons for combating inflation. He has directed that we do everything we can to hold down Federal spending for the next two years. Our objectives are to reduce the estimated deficit in fiscal year 1975 to the lowest possible level, and to bring the budget into balance in fiscal year 1976.

A stringest fiscal policy may not always sit well with some special groups whose particular interest calls for more, rather than less, govern ment spending. But the President's responsibility is to look after the interest of (SET ITAL) all (END ITAL) American people.

It's also true that the so-called uncontrollable expenditures which have been built into the budget over the years by legislation make balancing a very difficult objective to achieve. In fact, it can be realized only if both the administration and the Congress are steadfast in their determination to succeed. We in the executive branch are firmly committed to do everything we can and to cooperate fully with the Congress to restrain spending. We will not cop out in the battle against inflation.

DR. SEUSS I PRESUME

WASHINGTON — My good friend Dr. Seuss wrote a book a few years ago titled "Marvin K. Mooney Will You Please Go Now!" He sent me a copy the other day and crossed out "Marvin K. Mooney" and replaced it with "Richard M. Nixon." It sounded like fun so I asked him if I could reprint it. Please read it aloud.

"Richard M. Nixon will you please go now!
The time has come.
The time has come.
The time is now.
Just go.
Go.
GO!
I don't care how.
You can go by foot.
You can go by cow.
Richard M. Nixon will you please go now!
You can go on skates.
You can go on skis.
You can go in a hat.
But
Please go.
Please!
I don't care.
You can go
By bike.
You can go
On a Zike-Bike
If you like.
If you like
You can go
In an old blue shoe.
Just go, go, GO!
Please do, do, do, DO!
Richard M. Nixon
I don't care how.
Richard M. Nixon
Will you please
GO NOW!
You can go on stilts.
You can go by fish.
You can go in a Crunk- Car
If you wish.
If you wish
You may go
By lion'stail.
Or stamp yourself
And go by mail.
Richard M. Nixon
Don't you know
The time has come
To go, go, GO!
Get on your way!
Please Richard M.!
You might like going in a Zumble- Zem.
You can go by balloon ...
Or broomstick.
Or
You can go by camel
In a bureau drawer.
You can go by Bumble-Boat
. . . or jet.
I don't care how you go.
Just GET!
Richard M. Nixon!
I don't care HOW.
Richard M. Nixon
Will you please
GO NOW!
I said
Go
And
GO
I meant . . .
The time had come
So . . .
Richard WENT."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Reform Watch Report

WASHINGTON — We have set up a special watch on Watergate reforms to keep the public posted on what Congress is doing to prevent future Watergates. Here is our latest report:

With a great outpouring of piety, the House Administration Committee last week finally turned loose the clean election bill. The lofty language, however, was merely the incense that disguised the smell.

Most members of Congress, having been scorched by the Watergate scandals, would like to absolve themselves of these sins before going home to face the voters in November. But they are most reluctant to reform the political system that brought them to power.

If they can get away with it, therefore, they would like to placate the public with remedies that give the appearance rather than the substance of reforms.

The most important reform is the clean election bill. The Senate version contains some strong provisions, which would go a long way toward preventing future Watergate abuses.

There is an unspoken arrangement on Capitol Hill, however, for handling unwanted reforms. The reforms will sail through the Senate with banners flying only to languish and die in the House.

Then in the next session, the process starts all over again. This time the House will pass the reforms, which will suddenly encounter procedural obstacles in the Senate. Thus, the individual members of both houses are able to vote for reforms in full confidence that they will never be adopted.

Under this arrangement, the Senate clean election bill struck a snag many months ago in the House Administration Committee. Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, bumped the bill along like a frog filled with buckshot. "He dawdled, fussed, fumed and screamed," one committee member confided to my reporter Jim Moorhead.

"I did the best I could," Hays countered. The pressures of the Watergate disclosures compelled him at last to let the bill out of his clutches.

But it is now safely lodged in the logjam of the House impeachment debate. "I wouldn't despair if the bill didn't come up until September," says Hays. He promised that "it won't go down the drain."

Even if the House bill should pass, however, it has been neatly tailored to protect the incumbents. For appearances sake, it contains most of the strong Senate provisions. But the reforms would be enforced by officials who take their orders from the people they would be expected to regulate.

Under the House bill, the supervisory board would include the clerk of the House and the secretary of the Senate. Not only are they subject to the will of the incumbents they would supervise, but they would have no power to prosecute violators. The regulations of the supervisory board would also be subject to a Senate-House veto.

We will continue to keep a watch on these reforms and to report to the voters before November what their electeed representatives do about them. For we believe there is nothing wrong with the political system that a good election won't cure.

SOVIET COOPERATION: The Soviets, not wishing to jeopardize their ties with world revolutionary movements, have opposed strong international anti- hijacking action. But behind the scenes, the Soviets are cooperating with the West to waylay air terrorists.

Soviet officials alerted Western governments, for example, on the movements of three Japanese terrorists, one of them a member of the extremist "Japanese Red Army," who were allegedly plotting a hijacking.

The story of this undercover Soviet cooperation is containedin secret intelligence reports obtained by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., who is seeking stronger measures to curb air piracy.

Soviet agents, according to one intelligence cable, heard reports the Japanese Red Army activist, Okudaira Fusako, had gone to Hong Kong. They reported that two other "Japanese radical youths, Okita Kozen and Sasaki Michihiro" had made a mysterious trip from Tokyo to Bangkok.

Although the Soviets couldn't substantiate all these reports, they obligingly gave them "wide dissemination" through "Soviet officials" overseas.

The intelligence reports show that the names of the three potential hijackers were divulged "In Malaysia, Laos and Senegal by Soviet Embassy and Aeroflot (airline) officials," all as a courtesy to these lands.

Obviously, the Russians had good information. On July 15, a 26- year- old Japanese hijacker, Akira Iwakoshi, held a Japanese airliner as ransom. His intent was to free the jailed leader of the Japanese Red Army. When he failed, he slit his throat.

Footnote: In a letter to House Commerce Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., Murphy said he had received information from Federal Aviation Administration sources that four international airports are "wide open to terrorist attacks." Murphy identified them as London's Heathrow airfield Copenhagen, Buenos Aires and Panama City.

'Mama' Cass Elliott dies in London

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top pathologist said after an autopsy today that further tests would be needed to determine how "Mama" Cass Elliot, the sweet-voiced 238-pound pop singer, died.

Prof. Keith Simpson gave no details of his examination, but said the singer did not appear to have died from natural causes. He did not elaborate.

Police said an inquest will be held at Westminister coroner's court Wednesday.

Simpson's statement came only hours after the singer's doctor, Anthony Greenburg, told newsmen: "I think the post-mortem will probably show that she died as a result of choking on a sandwich while lying in bed and inhaling her own vomit.

"She was a very big lady and I could not rule out the possibility of a heart attack."

Dot MacLeod, the singer's secretary, said she found the 33-year-old star's body Monday afternoon slightly propped up in her double bed in the six-room apartment she was occupying during engagements in Britain. The television set was on, and a ham sandwich and a soft drink were beside her pillow, Miss MacLeod said.

"She had been dead for a considerable time before her body was found," Dr. Greenburg said.

The singer, who rose to fame in the 1960s as the leading Mama of The Mamas and the Papas, completed a two-week engagement at the Palladium Saturday night. She was preparing to start a tour of Britain.

"This last week was the happiest I have ever seen her," said her manager, Allan Carr. "She told me after she had received a standing ovation at the Palladium: 'I feel that I have given the best of myself 23 times, but I have never felt better about anything I have ever done professionally.'"

Dr. Greenburg said she had been dieting and had "been doing quite well." She told an interviewer from the Times of London a few days ago she had lost 80 pounds in the past year.

Miss Elliot's 7-year-old daughter by singer James R. Hendricks, Vanessa, was reported with her grandmother in Baltimore, Md.

Born Ellen Naomi Cohen in Baltimore, she grew up in Virginia and Maryland and took the name Cassandra Elliot before going to New York at 19 to try for a stage career.

In 1971, she married a Bavarian baron, Donald von Wiedenam.

Portageville firm named in suit

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., filed suit Monday in U. S. District Court against Southwestern Director, Inc. of Portageville, Mo., accusing it of violating copyrights by reproducing several of Bell's East Arkansas directories.

Bell asked the court to enjoin the Missouri firm from printing, publishing or selling the defendants,"Area- Wide Phone Book Serving Forrest City, Brinkley, Marianna, and Wynne, Ark."

Bell alleged the material in the directory's publication was copied mostly from Bell's copyrighted directories in those cities served by the Bell System.

The suit asked damages be paid of not less than $250 for each copyright infringed or $1 for each infringing copy of directory.

William R. McIntoch, the Missouri's firm's president, and Blanch McIntoch, the firm's secretary, both of Portageville, were named defendants.

Turkey, Greece near agreement

By The Associated Press

Turkey and Greece have reached a compromise agreement in principle for ending their military showdown on Cyprus, a spokesman for the Turkish delegation to the Geneva peace talks reported today.

He predicted the accord would be signed this afternoon.

But Greek Foreign inister George Mavros told newsmen that, while he is hopeful, there were still a number of problems to resolve before a truce could be signed.

The Turkish spokesman said the exact wording of the agreement was being worked out, including a compromise on the potentially explosive issue of Turkish troop withdrawals. He indicated the Turks would agree to wording in the agreement that would speak of Turkish troop reductions, rather than withdrawals.

A Greek delegate said, however, that the new Turkish formula commits the Ankara government to withdraw its invasion force when a final political settlement is reached on the Mediterranean island. The Turkish military presence thereby would be officially defined as temporary, thus saving the Greeks face.

Once an interim military agreement is concluded in Geneva, the Cyprus peace talks will be able to advance to a second stage to deal with the island republic's political future. This would include an overhauling of the Cyprus constitution as well as the 1960 agreement whereby Greece, Turkey and Britain guaranteed Cyprus independence.

These talks could begin toward the end of the first week in August, the Turkish spokesman said.

VACATION HOUSE & TAX DEFERMENT

Among the benefits of being a homeowner are the unique tax advantages available. One of them to be wary of is the provision which allows you to defer paying income tax on any profit made from the sale of your home if you buy a more expensive one within a certain amount of time. It does not apply in all cases.

For example, if you sell a vacation home at a $2,000 profit and promptly buy a much more expensive place, can you defer paying the income tax on the profit? The answer is no!

This tax break is available only when both the house sold and the house purchased serve as your principle residence. A vacation house doesn't qualify. However, if you owned the dwelling for more than six months before selling it, the $2,000 is a long- term capital gain. If not, it's a short- term capital gain, which is usually taxed as ordinary income.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Mitchell is Past President of the Sikeston Board of Realtors and is currently serving as Vice- President of the Missouri Association of Realtors.)

Lessons for Young Bicyclists to Learn

Chief Leon R. Culp
Sikeston Police Department

Lesson No. 13 - Lane Changing

We have now arrived at the final lesson....No. 13! I want to go over one other important subject with you that we have not touched on...lane changing.

Lane changing is when you are riding down the street in the right hand portion of your side of the street, and you want to change to the left hand portion, or the left lane, in preparation for making a left turn. This is where most bicyclists become very careless. They ride along looking over their shoulders to see what is coming from behind, and pay little attention to what they are approaching in front of them. This is hazardous!

The proper way to change lanes, when you are riding a bicycle, is to LISTEN first. You can usually hear a car approaching from the rear and if you hear traffic close behind, do not bother taking the time to look behind you....WAIT until it sounds like there are no cars there. (You should avoid taking your eyes off the road in front of you as much as possible.) If it sounds clear behind you, then look, and if it is clear make your left turn ARM SIGNAL, before changing lanes. Making the arm signal is of great importance....DO NOT forget this! Not only does your left turn arm signal tell the drivers behind you that you are intending to turn left, but it tells others ahead of you, and this too is important!

When you have made your left turn arm signal for about ½ block, if traffic behind you is still clear, or well back of you, slowly ease over into the left lane. NEVER do this quickly or without looking behind you over your shoulder, or without giving your left turn hand signal!

The same procedure holds true if you are for some reason riding in the left lane and want to change to the right lane, to get back close to the curb or to make a right hand turn.

Now, let's say you want to turn left, you have gone through the above procedure to change lanes, to get into left turn position, and you are waiting in the left lane for the traffic light to change so you can make your turn. When the light changes, remember, the traffic coming toward you must be allowed to pass first, even if you must wait while the traffic light goes through another complete series of changes! DO NOT attempt to go ahead of the oncoming traffic! If there is a left turn green arrow, of course, then you may proceed as soon as the light changes and the arrow comes on.

IMPORTANT: While making your left hand turn, STAY in the same lane you were in when you started your turn. If you allow yourself to ease over into the next lane to your right, you may go directly in front of a car that is also making a left turn. After your turn is completed is time enough to start glancing over your right shoulder, and making your right turn signal, to get yourself back near the curb for regular riding. ALWAYS use your hand signals when changing lanes....this is the law, and it is the ONLY safe way to change lanes!

QUESTIONS	YES	NO
To change lanes you must first look over your shoulder, then if safe, use hand signal, then ease slowly into the desired lane.	___	___
If too much traffic is coming from behind you, you must wait until it passes before you change lanes.	___	___
When making a left turn you MUST stay in the same lane to complete your turn as you were in when you started.	___	___

I have enjoyed providing this training course for young bicyclists to learn the rules of the road. It is my hope that each and everyone following this series has learned a lot about safe biking and respect for others on the streets and highways.

When you have completed this lesson, and it has been corrected by one of your parents, send all of your completed lessons to my office. Enclose a letter from the parent who has been helping you with your lessons, stating that you have completed the course satisfactorily and learned your lessons well. You will receive in return a handsome, wallet size card to carry with you, showing you are a qualified bicycle operator. Good luck and happy biking!

Founder of Cape program dies

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri Association for Children with Learning Disabilities in Cape Girardeau was notified Saturday of the death of Dr. Charles L. Shedd of Lafayette, La., founder of the association.

Dr. Shedd was born in 1920 in eastern Tennessee.

Survivors include his mother and two sisters, Dr. Margaret Shedd and Mrs. Helen Chuckley, addresses unavailable.

He was buried Sunday afternoon in Evan, Ga., a suburb of Atlanta.

Dr. Shedd's program in Cape Girardeau will continue under arrangements made by Dr. Shedd before his death.

At the time of his death, Dr. Shedd was director of the Reading Research Foundation in Lafayette, of which he was the founder.

He had served as associate professor of psychology at Berea College in Berea, Ky., professor and head of the department of psychology at Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, Ky., consultant to the Kentucky Department of Mental Health for five years and consultant to the Kentucky Department of Corrections.

Ann Landers

Hubby needs a gift

Dear Ann Landers: I am 55 years old and have been married for 30 years. I have given my wife 33 birthday gifts, 30 anniversary presents, 28 Mother's Day gifts, and an uncounted number of "just because I love you" gifts. My wife has never given me a gift of any kind.

This woman is wonderful, devoted, kind and gentle. I love her dearly. She has told me every Christmas when she opens her gifts from me and the children, that men do not attach any importance to gifts, which is why she has never bought me anything and never will.

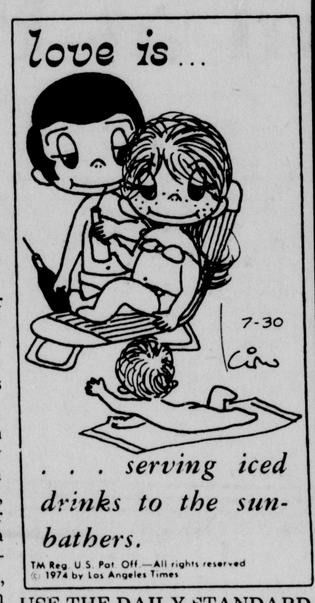

We have a joint checking account and she carries charge plates for at least seven stores. I don't need anything except the pleasure of receiving a gift from her. I would cherish the wildest, most hideous necktie ever made, and I'd wear it with pride if my wife bought it for me.

Call me childish if you like, but this is the way I feel. Can you find room in your column for my letter? It may help educate other wives who think as she does. I could never bring myself to tell her how I feel and I'm too embarrassed to sign my name. Just call me -- Gift- Rapped

Dear Rapped: Any man who would harbor a secret complaint for 30 years must love his hair shirt.

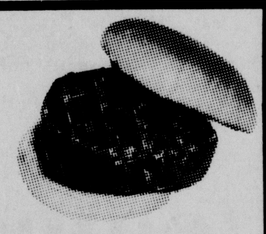

I suggest that you hand your wife this column and tell her you wrote the letter. I hope she will then go out and buy you the wildest, most hideous necktie ever made.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Moores have anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Moore, 401 E. Gladys St., celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary Sunday by attending morning mass, having dinner at Two Tony's Smorgasbord and serving as honorees at a reception in the afternoon at the home of a daughter and son- in- law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hart, 107 Dudley Drive.

The Hart's and the couple's other daughters and their husbands served as hosts. They are: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dillender of Florissant, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schaefer of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bolen of St. Charles and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Umfress of Fort Campbell, Ky. The couple's 17 grandchildren were also present.

At the reception the couple's table was centered with an anniversary cake which was decorated in silver and with the numeral "45". Silver candelabras and a coffee service completed the setting.

Brock steals 700th base

CHICAGO (AP) — Lou Brock is far ahead of schedule- so much so that one of these days he'll be shooting for Maury Wills' record and one of these years he might even challenge Ty Cobb's stolen- base mark.

"Yes, I remember once saying that 700 stolen bases was my goal," Brock said Monday after stealing No. 700 of his career and his 65th of the season in an 11-2 St. Louis romp over the Chicago Cubs.

"I'm surprised it came this quickly, especially considering the start I had last year," said Brock. "I was out on 10 of my first 23 attempts. That was when 700 looked tough. Then I stole 60 of my next 70. That turned it around."

Brock, who turned 35 last month, avoids discussing the records of Wills' 104 stolen bases in one season and Cobb's career mark of 892.

He became the fifth man in history to steal 700. Ahead of him are Honus Wagner with 701, whom he'll pass any day. Next season he'll catch Max Carey, who holds the National League mark of 738, and Eddie Collins who is No. 2 on the alltime list with 743. Far ahead is Cobb, who didn't retire until he was 42.

"I don't see myself playing at 42 or even 40," said Brock. "I'd have to say 38 is a possibility.

"No, honestly, I don't remember the first base I stole," said Brock. "All I remember is I was with the Cubs and I was wearing No. 24."

Brock was traded by the Cubs to the Cardinals in 1964 for Ernie Broglio, who turned out to be a sore-armed pitcher who rapidly faded from the scene.

Brock went on to lead the Cardinals to a world championship that year and has been the motivating factor in Cardinal successes ever since. But has been especially tough on his old teammates.

The game was halted and the grounds crew dug up Brock's 700th stolen base. He'll probably put it alongside No. 600, which he also stole in Wrigley Field - against the Cubs last season.

He says he steals on the pitchers and not the catchers and gives a lot of credit to Ted Sizemore, who bats behind him in the Cardinal lineup.

"What has it been?" said Brock "four years now that Ted's batting behind me? We're developing into a team. Remember, Wills had Jim Gilliam behind him and it took them time to develop. Same here. The No. 2 hitter has to learn the idiosyncracies of the catcher. I have to deal in body motion and idiosyncracies of the pitcher."

The victory was the seventh in the last eight games for the resurging Cardinals who rattled out 18 hits and had at least two base runners in each inning.

Bake McBride had three hits while everyone else in the starting lineup, including pitcher John Curtis, had two each. Ken Reitz hit his fourth homer in the fifth inning and Joe Torre slugged his seventh in the seventh inning.

Sizemore, Ted Simmons, Toree and Reitz each drove in two runs as Curtis, 5-10, was the winner but again failed to finish. He needed ninth inning help from Orlando Pena.

Burt Hooton, 3-10, was the loser and failed to finish. He needed ninth inning help from Orlando Pena.

Burt Hooton, 3-10, was the loser and failed to to three innings. Steve Swisher hit his third homer for the Cubs in the fourth inning and also singled home a run in the ninth inning.

In the Cardinal half of the fourth inning, Cub first baseman Andre Thornton and umpire Billy Williams collided. Thornton had to leave the game with a brain concussion. Williams stayed on but he also left in the eighth inning with a headache.

Parma, Tri- County advance

Tri- County made rather easy work of Dexter while Parma struggled to pull out an opening win during first night action in the Sikeston Jr. Babe Ruth Invitational baseball tournament at VFW stadium Monday.

Parma held off a seventh inning Charleston rally to preserve a 5-4 win while tri-county took care of Dexter, 14-4, in five innings.

Tournament play resumes tonight at 7 p.m. when New Madrid goes against Sikeston Reds. East Prairie squares off against the Sikeston Aces at 9 p.m.

Tony Garcia fashioned a six hitter for Parma, who scored single runs in each of the first three innings and added a pair in the sixth while limiting Charleston to runs in the first and fourth and a pair in the seventh.

McIntosh led Parma's offense with a two for two performance with the bat and scored two runs along with Chamberland. Garcia slammed a triple for Parma while A. Gary connected for a three bagger and Gordon hit a double.

McElmurry and Hamm had two hits each in leading a nine hit Tri- County charge. Hamm scored four runs to back the four hit pitching performance of Naile.

Tri- County broke a 3-3 deadlock with a five run third and added five more in the fourth before ending the game with a single tally in the last of the fifth.

Matthews tripled for Dexter and the games only extra base hit.

POPLAR BLUFF — Sikeston entries into the Poplar Bluff 11-12 year old little league invitational baseball tournament scored rather easy wins in opening night play Monday. The All-Stars set down Piedmont 7-2 behind the three hit pitching performance of Self and Campbell while the Aces buried Ellsinore 12-2 in four innings.

Dock and Harper paced a 10- hit attack with two hits each. Crites had two of Piedmont's three safeties.

The Aces made the most of six hits in disposing of Ellsinore in four innings, scoring four runs in the first and adding a single tally in the third before ending the game with a seven run fourth to give King the victory. G. Laseter and Brashears homered for the Aces while Lewis Copeland and J. Laseter hit doubles. Brashears had two of the Aces six hits.

Tournament play resumes tonight with the Aces facing Dexter at 7:30 and the All-Stars going against Poplar Bluff at 9 p.m.

BUFFALO — The Buffalo Bills of the National Football League acquired quarterback Scott Hunter from the Green Bay Packers in exchange for running back Pete Van Valkenberg and defensive tackle Steve Okoniewski.

Dexter upsets Stars

Dexter knocked off the Sikeston all- stars 6-5 and Poplar Bluff crushed Chaffee 16-4 in opening round play of the 9-10 year old Sikeston Little League Invitational baseball tournament Monday.

Tournament play resumes at 6:30 p.m. when Parma meets the Poplar Bluff Mules. Scott City battles the Sikeston Aces at 8 p.m.

Dexter rallied for three runs in the top of the sixth and made the most of three hits to upset the town favorites.

Sikeston took a 1-0 lead in the first and added two more in the last of the third before Dexter put together a three run fourth for a tie. The stars charged back with single runs in the fourth and fifth, but failed to push any runs across in the sixth.

Becker claimed the win, holding the potent Sikeston lineup to four hits while Hurley absorbed the loss. Hedrick and Heitman connected for key doubles for the Dexter Stars while Perry hit one for the Sikeston Stars.

Parks homered and hit a pair of doubles to lead a nine hit Poplar Bluff attack that produced 16 runs.

The game was rather close until the fifth as Bluff held a 7-4 advantage before sending home nine runs in the fifth for their run-away win.

Bess had two doubles and Hefner one while Talkington tripled for the winners. Shy and Yount doubled for Chaffee.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, July 30, the 211th day of 1974. There are 154 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1909, the U.S. government bought its first airplane. It was a Wright biplane costing $31,000.

On this date:

In 1718, the founder of Pennsylvania, William Penn, died in England.

In 1863, the American auto pioneer, Henry Ford, was born in Greenfield, Mich.

In 1916, before the U.S. entered World War I, German saboteurs blew up a munitions plant on Black Tom Island near Jersey City, N.J..

In 1918, the American poet who wrote "Trees," Sgt. Joyce Kilmer, was killed in action in France.

In 1953, race riots broke out in Chicago's Trumbull Park housing project after a black family moved into the previously all-White community.

Ten years ago: French President Charles de Gaulle proposed that the United States, the Soviet Union, Communist China and France agree to get out of Indochina as a move to end fighting in South Vietnam and Laos.

Five years ago: Spain's Prince Juan Carlos took the oath as Generalissimo Francisco Franco's designated successor and vowed loyalty to the Spanish system set up by Franco.

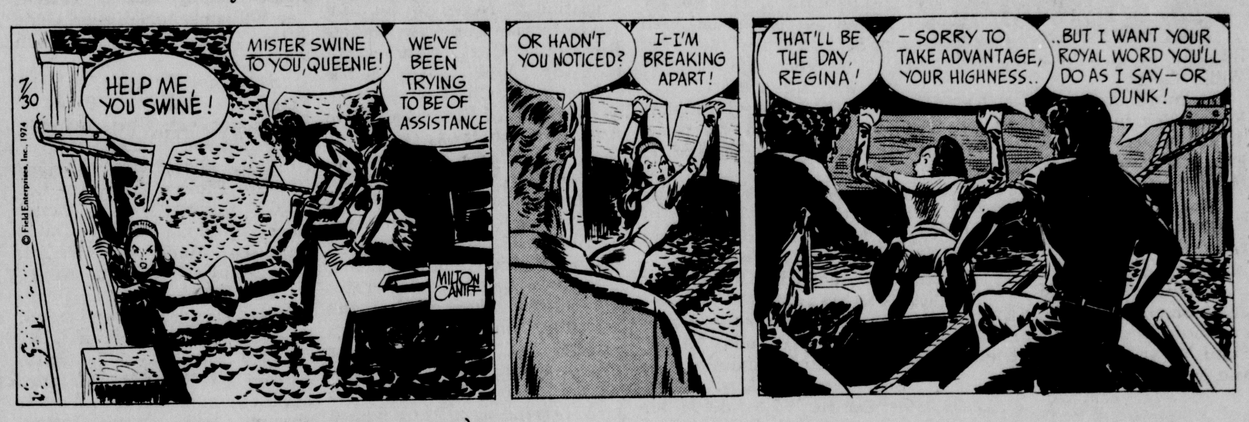

One year ago: The Senate Watergate Committee and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox served subpoenas on President Nixon after he refused to release take recording sought in the Watergate case.

Today's birthdays: Former baseball star Don Drysdale is 38 years old.

July 30, 1924

Mrs. Chas. Prow has returned from a two weeks' visit in Memphis, Tenn., with Mr. and Mrs. Hammond Baker, jr. They accompanied her home for a visit.

Mrs. Maude Stubbs and sons, Louis Paul and Jack, are home after visiting in Arcadia and St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Seibert and three sisters of Ashville, Ill., motored to Sikeston last weekend for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kronegger. They returned home Monday.

Monroe Cravens motored to Wickliffe, Ky., to bring his family home, who have been visiting with relatives.

A B-17 made a forced landing at the local airport Sunday.

Pvt. William Phillips, 31, is missing in action, a telegram from the War Department informed his wife, 122 North street, last week.

Sam Hunter, jr., son of Mayor and Mrs. S. L. Hunter of New Madrid, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant (j.g.) and assigned to a post as assistant navigator of his ship.

The 150 prisoner of war laborers who were in the Sikeston area to aid in the detassling of corn for the C. F. McMullin Estate, were transferred back to Weingarten Saturday after completing their job here. There is a small group of prisoners still at the camp near McMullin, but these are being used by the Cornell Seed Co., of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Binford, in Marble Hill.

Word was received here by relatives that Jack Mueller of Oklahoma City, Okla., brother of Mrs. Mildred Trousdale of Sikeston, had died of a heart attack at his home.

Mrs. J. W. Barron, 79, of Charleston, died today at St. Mary's Hospital in Cairo.

East Prairie -- Mrs. Nancy Anner Hardin, 65, of the Miller district near East Prairie, died Friday after an illness of four years.

It's nice to see out-of-town relatives -- out-of-town.

Some people deserve a break -- like, say, in the neck.

ScottCo students cited

COLUMBIA -- Twenty-three students from Scott County are among nearly 12,000 recognized for outstanding classwork during the past academic year at University of Missouri-Columbia.

The Scott Countieans include:

Kenneth J. Barkett, Julia Kathryn Crader, Jennifer O. Drumm, Jan Sargent Felker, Anne K. Heckemeyer, Janet Lois Hedrick, Joseph Hilpert Jacob, Gregory M. Larance, Gary Ray Long, Philip F. Matthews, Gary Lee McDonald, Priscilla Nunnelee, Wayne T. Sanderson, King E. Sidwell and Charles Ray Stamp Jr. of Sikeston.

James Scott Arnold and Christine F. Nebel of Benton; Joyce Marian Capshaw, George Raymond Cox, Charles M. Heuring and Joan Marie Scheeter of Chaffee; Carolyn N. Albrecht of Illmo; and Ruth Ann Harris of Oran.

The students were named by campus divisions which designate honor rolls or dean's honor lists for both semesters.

Honor lists vary somewhat among divisions, but students must have high grade averages in courses taken during the semester and a minimum number of scheduled class hours per week. Grade averages required range from 2.75 to 3.25, depending in the division (4.0 is the highest attainable).

No honor lists are issued by the School of Medicine, the Graduate School, the School of Library and Informational Science or School of Veterinary Medicine. Students shown as enrolled in these schools are receiving recognition from UMC schools in which they were previously enrolled or hold dual enrollment.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"Whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Philippians 4:8)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, thank You for the lovely memories You have given me; for the good reports I hear of Your servants in other places: for the encouraging opportunities I have today to spread Your love. Touch my life so that Your fragrance will spill from it to others. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Political sign posters warned of hazards

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) -- The state's chief highway engineer Robert Hunter issued a warning Friday to political candidates and their supporters to refrain from posting signs on the highway right-ofway.

"Some of the districts were having trouble with it," Hunter said, adding that the warning was primarily in the interest of safety.

Friends may call after 9 a.m. Wednesday at Rainey Funeral Home in Dexter, where services are scheduled at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Burial will be in Dexter Cemetery.

WADE HATCHER

Services for Vernon Wade Hatcher, 48, who died Sunday, are scheduled at 11 a.m. Wednesday in Welsh Funeral Home with the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of Calvary Assembly of God Church, officiating.

The body will be taken to Fresno, Calif., for burial.

JOHN W. DAVIS

CHAFFEE — John Williams Davis, 92, died at 7 p.m. Monday in Chaffee General Hospital.

Born March 14, 1882 in Shelby County, Ill., he was the son of the late William L. and Sarah Elizabeth Sykes Davis.

He was a member of the Church of Christ at Cape Girardeau and was a 50- year member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

On June 3, 1906, he married Rillie Chambers, who survives.

Also surviving are a son, Paul W. Davis of Maplewood; two daughters, Mrs. Maggie Roberts and Mrs. Marie Wyrick of Maplewood; one sister, Mrs. Mae Jones of Braggs, Okla.; and 12 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday in Amick-Burnett Funeral Chapel.

Burial will be in Union Park Cemetery.

Ervin not guilty

Ronald Dewayne Ervin, Adams Street, was found not guilty in a Magistrate Court trial today of dumping trash along Route HH on June 25.

In other court proceedings this morning in the Sikeston City Courtroom:

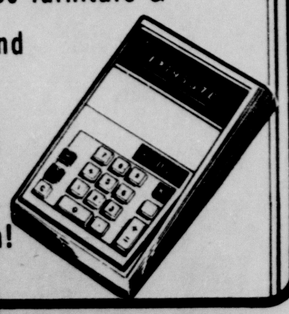

Jerry Beasley of Bertrand was given a 30- day suspended sentence and placed on two-year probation for cashing a bogus check. Bob Blackman of Charleston received a 90-day suspended sentence and was placed on two- year probation for cashing a bogus check.

Paul David Martin, 405 Lions St., waived a preliminary hearing on a breaking and entering charge and was bound over to appear in Circuit Court on Aug. 8.

Eugene Harris was arraigned on an auto theft charge and an attorney was appointed to represent him. William Tucker was arraigned on two counts of cashing bogus checks and an attorney was appointed. His probation on a previous conviction was revoked.

Cases continued to August 6 included: Phillip Morris Evans, 925 Tanner St., nonsupport; Mary E. Tucker, bogus check; Thomas Wade Brock, peace disturbance; Jack Burton, Dye Street, nonsupport; Calvin Lonnie Carter, rape; and Dora Ethel Johnson, Route Four, driving while license revoked.

Cases continued to Aug. 20 included: William Theodore Eberly, Compress Road, theft and Columbua Jefferson of Haywood City, felonious assault.

features central air conditioning and heating, finished walls and carpeting throughout.

The bedrooms are decorated for a master bedroom, a boy's room and a girl's room. The house is furnished with drapery, a stove, garbage disposal and dishwasher. The only room not carpeted is the utility room.

Besides three large bedrooms (the smallest is 12 by 14 feet) the house includes two and one-half baths, a utility room, kitchen, living room, dining room, family room and an outside storage room adjoining the two- car carport.

Land reports that the house has "lots of closet space" and more than the average number of electrical wall outlets. All clothes closets are walk-in closets with one-third more closet space than the average sized closet of today, according to Land. The closets also feature three levels of bars, which provides more hanging room.

Four sliding doors — one to each of the three baths and another to a large storage closet designed to hold out - of - season clothes — provide more wall space than conventional doors. Bathrooms also each feature a heater - lamp as an added touch.

Kitchen cabinets are constructed of ash with a walnut stain and provide more space than factory built cabinets because they extend all the way to the ceiling instead of the custormary 16-inch drop from the ceiling most factory built cabinets have.

All shelves in the cabinets are adjustable. The kitchen also features a large pantry for storage of canned goods and other items.

The family room features birch paneling. Other walls in the house are painted or papered.

The utility room includes a broom closet and plenty of storage room above the space for a washer and dryer.

Another special feature in the home are cutoff faucets on all water pipes, permitting individual pipes to be turned off for repairs without interrupting the water supply to the rest of the house.

Windows in the house are of double insulated glass, while the ceiling has six inches of insulation and walls have four inches — above the normal amount of insulated added during contract building, Land said.

Sliding glass patio doors lead to a 10 by 20 - foot concrete patio, at the back of the house. A concrete front porch is 8 by 20 feet.

All four sides of the house have outside faucets and plug-ins for convenience.

Seniors of the 1973-74 class, who helped construct the house, were Delmer Agnew and Elmer Agnew of East Prairie and John Miller, Harry Pratt and Nelson Johnson of Sikeston.

First- year students were Tommy Bruenderman, LeRoy Buttry, John Haas and Dennis Rapert of Charleston; Mike Lacy of Morehouse; Mickell Long of Bell City; David Davis of East Prairie; and Eddie Cantrell, Curtis Causey, Mark Fausett, Larry Jackson, Billy Lewis, Kenneth Sadler and Tommy Duncan of Sikeston.

Front of farm tractor stolen

BENTON — The front end of a tractor was reported stolen from the K. M. Streeter farm on Painton Route One, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today.

He said no value was given for the front end.

A similar theft was reported in Bollinger County, Dennis said.

during the incident. His left eye was swollen completely shut the next day when his parents came to see him.

"The prisoners were drunk," New said. "They were drinking MD20-20 wine, and Brimer and Smith had some amphetamines."

"Mallett was the victim of a second beating when Dunn and Butler returned," New claimed. "Brimer beat Terry (Mallett) as Dunn and Butler asked questions relating to drugs: 'Where did you get it? We know you're tied up in it! Where is it coming from?'

"Each time Terry would say he didn't know, he would get hit again," New pointed out.

"I think they realized by then that I wasn't John," New said.

Those were the only questions relating to drugs the pair received while in jail, according to New. "Neither sheriff nor his deputies asked us any questions," New related.

"We saw the sheriff, (W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, Jr.) as we came in that night and saw him the next afternoon, and he didn't ask us one question about drugs," New noted.

"The prisoners apologized to us for the beating the next day after they had sobered up, and one of them even said that he wouldn't do that anymore," New said. "Smith told us that he would get some time off for performing the beating."

James New, father of the alleged victim, went to the jail May 31 and asked to see his son and to talk to the sheriff.

"The jailer told me that I couldn't see him, that visiting hours were Saturday and pointed to a sign. I told him that my son had been beaten and I wanted to see him. He then made a call and allowed me to see Jim," New's father recalled.

"The jailer said the sheriff was asleep and that he couldn't wake him up," he added.

The pair was released from custody about 3 p.m. May 31.

New was questioned by highway patrol officer Cpl. Alvin Mills, who wanted information about a car New had in his possession.

"He said the car was stolen," New recalled. "I told him I had bought the body in St. Charles and had put another engine in it. After I had showed him the bill of sales and title, he released my car back to me a few days later," New said.

"We thought you all were messed up in this deal, but apparently you're not ... you're free to go," Ramsey told the pair.

New said Ramsey didn't say anything about the bruises and black eye when he talked with him the day of his release.

Sheriff Ramsey confirmed today that New and Mallett had been prisoners in the New Madrid County jail. He said they were arrested on suspicion, but he could not recall the date of arrest.

Ramsey said he did not see Mallet and New when they were arrested but he saw them when they were released. As to their physical condition upon release, Ramsey said," Mallett was allright, but New had a light black eye. He may have had a fight with one of the prisoners."

The sheriff also recalled that Glen Brimer and a man named Chappel had been prisoners in the jail. He said Chappel was arrested for parole violation on a warrant from parole officer Gary Miller of Dexter.

When asked if beatings had ever occurred in the New Madrid County jail, Ramsey said, "Occasionally, fighting between the prisoners breaks out. When it does, we segregate them and move them around."

The sheriff denied that he or any of the jail officers had ever issued instructions to have prisoners beaten.

Frohna youth hurt in mishap

A Frohna youth was seriously hurt in a motorcycle accident and five persons received minor injuries in two other traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Monday, the highway patrol reported today.

Ronald Wayne Stellings, 18, received serious injuries at 4:30 p.m. on Route A in Altenberg when his motorcycle struck the front of a car driven by Wilbert Henry Lueders, 69, of Altenberg. A patrol spokesman said Lueders was driving on the wrong side of the road in an attempt to park on the shoulder when the accident occurred.

Stellings was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Three members of a Perryville family were injured at 7:30 p.m. on Route J seven miles northeast of Fredericktown when the driver lost control of the car, which ran off the road and struck a creek bank.

Kenneth Lloyd Newell, 19, his wife, Karen Sue Newell, 16, and their seven-month- old daughter Melissa received minor injuries and were taken to Perry County Hospital in Perryville.

A two- car accident at 9:35 p.m. 18 miles south of Fredericktown on Highway 67 resulted in two minor injuries.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Ernest Leroy Green tried to pass a car driven by Howard Lee Barry, 54, of Irondale as Barry was making a left turn. Barry's car ran off the road and struck a tree.

Barry and his wife, Eva Lorine Barry, 49, were slightly injured but were not hospitalized.

approximately $38,000 was approved for the cleaning out Hayden Ditch two miles west of Oran. Although the court believes this is an adequate amount, Lankford said the court does not think the $11,800 approved to clean out Ramsey Creek, located between Kelso and New Hamburg, and $13,000 for Caney Creek, south of New Hamburg is enough.

Lankford said some of the SCS board members will hold a meeting Thursday to request additional funds from the federal government which is financing the project.

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Mayor Jimmie Kerr says how to explain an early return home from a City Council meeting to his wife can be a major problem.

The council held a meeting which lasted until 11:35 p.m. But two weeks later the session was adjourned at 8:10 p.m.

Moore's burglarized

Burglars broke into Moore's Ace Hardware, 118 N. Madrid St., and took $1,391.59 worth of merchandise, according to police.

Police said burglars climbed up a utility pole on the south side of the building between 5 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. today and climbed through a window about 10 feet above the ground.

Taken were 11 guns, five watches, one stereo component set, two pocket radios, one digital clock radio, one cassette tape recorder, one turntable, $12.60 cents in coins and $31 in bills.

An eight- foot hydroplane racing boat belonging to Drew Matthews, was taken from the rear of his home at 710 Hickory between 11 p.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday.

The red, white, and blue boat is valued at $250.

Subpoenaed tapes subject of debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of two broad impeachment articles behind it, the House Judiciary Committee opened debate today on whether President Nixon should be charged as well for his refusal to turn over subpoenaed tape recordings and other materials to its inquiry.

The first impeachment article to be proposed by a Republican was offered by Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, the minority's second-ranking member.

The article said Nixon "has failed without lawful cause or excuse" to produce the materals from 147 conversations which the committee sought in eight subpoenas issued during April, May and June.

"The prime example of stonewalling is right there," McClory told the committee on its sixth day of nationally broadcast debate.

In a bid to speed up proceedings, the panel agreed to a two-hour limit for general debate on the proposal.

Other proposed articles on Nixon's personal finances and on the secret bombing of Cambodia were to be introduced later. Committee members were not sure if they could finish their deliberations by tonight.

The committee climaxed a 12-hour session Monday night by approving, 28 to 10, an article charging Nixon with violating his oath of office and his constitutional duties.

McClory predicted in advance of debate that his proposed third article would be approved 22 to 16.

"Congress itself is pitted against the executive," he said in defense of his proposal. He said executive privilege "has no place in an impeachment inquiry."

McClory's swing to the proimpeachment side Monday in the abuse of power debate produced the most one-sided substantive vote of the public deliberations.

Seven Republicans joined the 21 committee Democrats in support of the article, which many of them judged to be stronger than the obstruction of justice article approved Saturday, 27-11.

"Just as a consistent abuse of power holds more danger for the republic than a single criminal act, so is this a far more serious charge than in the article already adopted," said Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., a leading supporter of Article II.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., called the committee's action "a victory for justice" and said history may compare it to the challenge of the English barons that led to the signing of the Magna Carta in 1215, a milestone in the growth of political liberty in England.

President Nixon's supporters on the panel viewed the proceedings darkly. "I'm deeply concerned for the future of the presidency," said Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio.

Student-built house to be sold by bid

Students enrolled in the building trades class at the Sikeston Area Vocational School have built a new home at 704 Linden Lane, which will be open for public inspection Saturday and Sunday. The three-bedroom house has about 1,700 square feet of floor space and features a two-car carport. The house will be sold by bids which may be submitted to the board of education office. Ambulance agreement is reached

BENTON — The Scott County Court announced Monday that it had made a tentative agreement with George F. Rouse of Cape Girardeau for ambulance service in northern Scott County. Rouse is owner and operator of a private ambulance service.

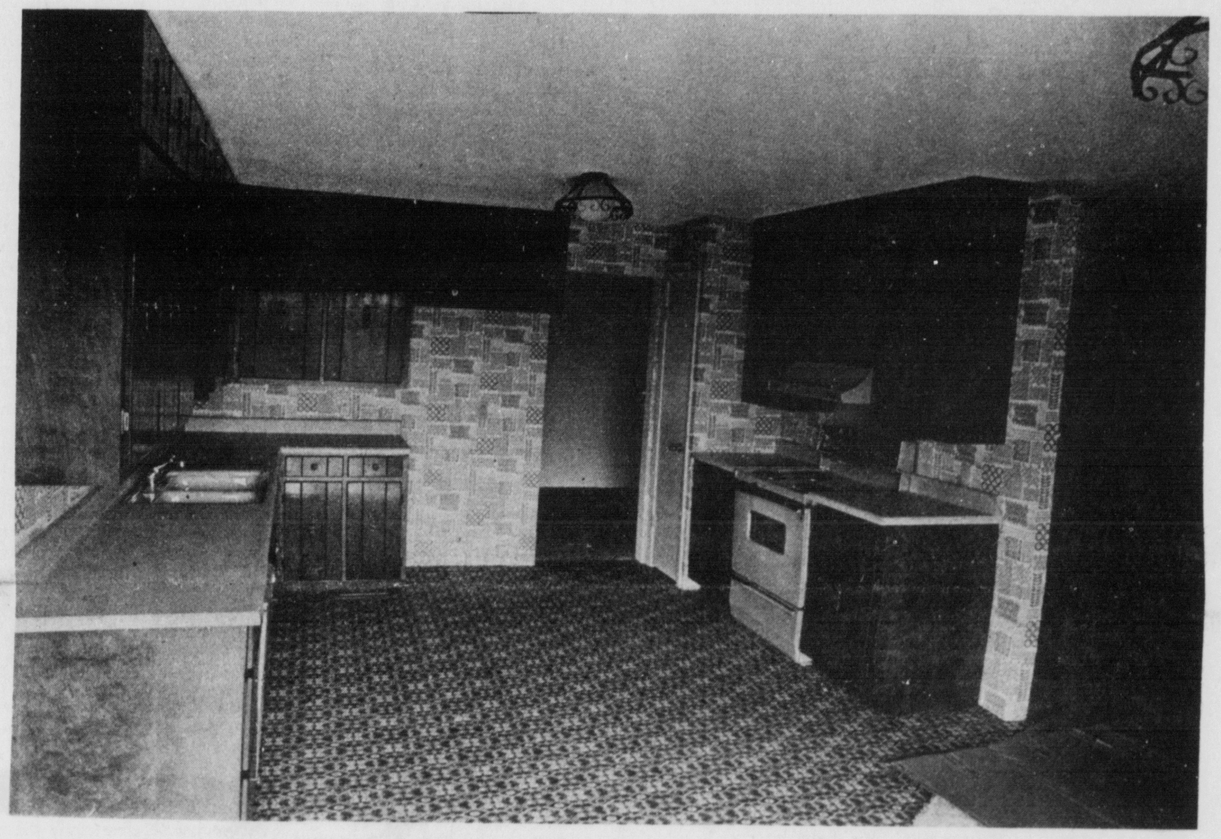

The county judges said they will sign contract with Rouse for ambualnce services until Jan. 1, 1975. At that time, the schedule of prices will be negotiated.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the court has been notified by a member of the Scott County Soil and Water Conservation District that the project to clean out a drainage ditch and two creeks in Scott County has been approved, but the court is not satisfied with the amount of money allocated.

Lankford said several members of the county SCS board also believe the amount of money allocated is insufficient.

According to Lankford,

Kitchen boasts of careful work

The kitchen gives a hint of the careful work and special features Sikeston Area Vocational School students put into the house they built at 704 Linden Lane. The kitchen features walnut-stained ash cabinets and more storage space than the normal kitchen has because the cabinets extend all the way to the ceiling and do not have the 16-inch drop most factory-built cabinets do. The kitchen comes complete with a stove, dishwasher and garbage disposal unit. (Daily Standard photo)

Races develop for 4 Scott County offices

BENTON — Races have developed for Democratic nominations for four Scott County offices in the Aug. 6 primary election.

The offices for which races have developed include all three positions on the County Court and the county treasurer's post.

Only one Democratic township committeeman position had more than one candidate.

Louie Hirschowitz of Oran, the present second district associate judge of the County Court, is seeking the office of presiding judge and will face opposition from Bill Lewis of Sikeston.

Les D. Lankford of Chaffee, currently serving as presiding judge, chose this year to run for second district associate judge. He is opposed by Melvin Glueck of Illmo and Donald E. Vance of Chaffee.

Eldon Ziegenhorn of Sikeston, incumbent first district associate judge, faces opposition from Arthur O. Bruce of Sikeston.

Hess Porter of Benton, incumbent county treasurer, is opposed by J. W. (Dub) Shuffit of Sikeston.

Candidates who are unopposed for Democratic renomination are:

Prosecuting attorney; James E. Moore III of Sikeston.

Circuit clerk: Lynn F. Ingram of Sikeston

Recorder of deeds: John J. Bollinger of Benton.

County clerk: Bob Kielhofner of Chaffee.

County collector: Tom Marshall of Sikeston.

Probate judge: John H. Sides of Sikeston.

Magistrate judge: Lloyd G. Briggs of Sikeston.

The the exception of the two associate judges positions, all of the offices are for four-year terms. Associate judges are elected for two-year terms.

Unopposed for Democratic committeeman and committeewoman positions are: Linus Huck and Wanda Dodson, Commerce Township; Kenneth Raney and Cornelia Shuford, Kelso Township; Thomas Arnold and Dorothy Voges, Moreland Township; Jam Mac Emerson and Ava Emerson, Morley Township; Ben F. Marshall and Glenda Evans, Sandywoods Township; Paul J. Crader and Elsie Streeter, Sylvania Township; and Boyd Duff and Ethel Duff, Tywappity Township.

In Richland Township, a three-way race has developed for committeeman involving James G. "Pete" Malone, C. E. Felker and Danny Byrd. Mrs. Lena Felker is unopposed for committeewoman.

Unopposed for Republican committeeman and committeewoman positions are:

Robert Jenkins and Dana Jenkins, Sikeston ward 1, precinct 1; Fred Steward Jr. and Mary Doggett, Sikeston ward 2, precinct 1; Eugene Potashnick and Lois Johnson, Sikeston ward 3, precinct 1; Lynn Colley and

Revised budget is approved

EAST PRAIRIE — The East Prairie R-2 School District board of education Monday night approved a revised budget for the 1974-75 school year. Total expenditures are estimated at $1,695,132 and total receipts a $1,640,490 for a deficit in the amount of $54,642. Supt. Gerald McElrath said the estimated deficit was due to a loss of students in the district and the inflationary cost of material and supplies.

A contract was awarded to Lewis Oil Co. of East Prairie who submitted a bid of 33 cents per gallon. Other bids received were MFA Oil Co., 34.8 cents, and Standard Oil Co., 35.6 cents. All bids exclused tax.

Webb Service Agency was awarded a contract for vehicle insurance on a bid of $2,856. Reeves Insurance and Real Estate Agency submitted a bid of $3,608.44 and Douglas Insurance Agency, $6,975.

Hart's Bakery and Turner Dairy of Sikeston were awarded contracts for bread and milk.

The board voted to increase the prices of lunches five cents for the 1974-75 school year, due to the increasing prices of meat and other foods. New prices will be: R. A. Doyle Elementary School, 30 cents and A. J. Martin Elementary School and A. L. Webb Junior High School, 45 cents.

The board elected Marie Baker as secretary and L. S. Watson as treasurer for the coming school year.

McElrath reported on the progress of work being done on district school buildings. The board agreed to tour the buildings at next month's meeting to view improvements made.

The board also designated First Bank of East Prairie as the depository for the 1974-75 school funds.

Sikeston building trades class holds open house

Open houses are not unusual, but an event coming up Saturday and Sunday is a bit out of the ordinary because of the house which will be open for public inspection. The house — at 704 Linden Lane — was built by students enrolled in the building trades class at the Sikeston Area Vocational School.

Instead of sitting in a classroom studying methods and techniques of building a house, high school juniors and seniors enrolled in Wayne Land's vocational building trades class spent their classroom hours actually building a house.

During the 1973-74 school year, a house with 1,700 square feet of floor space and a two-car carport was constructed on an 80 by 140 foot lot on Linden Lane. The Sikeston Area Vocational School will display the home in an open house from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Bids are now being accepted for purchase of the house and will be opened at the Sept. 10 meeting of the Sikeston R-6 School District board of education. Bids may be submitted to Charles Simpson at the board of education office. The school reserves the right to reject all bids.

The building trades class is taught as a two-year course, beginning with students entering the 11th grade. In addition to gaining on-the-job experience through actual construction of a home, hours are also spent in the classroom studying building details.

Students participate in most of the decisions concerning construction of the house. The home built this year has about 250 more square feet of floor space than the one built during the 1972-73 school year.

The careful work done by students is readily apparent on a tour through the house. The totally electric house — a three-bedroom unit —

Risco man claims he and another were beaten in New Madrid jail

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid County jail has been linked with beatings, liquor and drugs by a man who has claimed he and an associate were beaten by prisoners while being held at the jail May 30.

Jim New, 31, of Risco told The Daily Standard that he and Terry Mallett, 21, of rural Malden were arrested between 8 and 9 p.m. May 30 by New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff Fred Rowe. He said they were arrested while sitting in Mallett's car outside the jail preparing to seek permission to visit John Bunting of Risco who had been charged with sale of drugs.

"Rowe came up to us and asked for identification," New claimed. "We showed him our driver's license, and he told us: 'You are under arrest!' We asked for what and he said for investigation, and we again asked him for what and he said 'just investigation.'"

The pair claim they were not given their rights and were not allowed a phone call. "I asked if we get to make a phone call, and Rowe would not comment," New said.

"They searched us and put everything in an envelope and took us upstairs and put us in a cell with five other prisoners," he said.

After being in jail about 10 minutes, New said Dwight Butler and Herman Dunn, who reportedly were serving as trusties, came up to the cell and called three of the prisoners to one side and gave the order for the beating.

"Butler told them (prisoners named Chappel, Smith and Glen Brimer) that 'they' want Terry and John beaten," New related. "Brimer turned around, pointed and said: 'Is that Terry and John,' and Dunn replied, 'Yeah, that's them.'"

The beating ensued as Butler and Dunn left.

"Terry got hit first," New noted. "I don't know how long it lasted, but I had the bruises to show for it. Terry had claw marks on his neck as they hit him more to the body."

New, who works for the General Motors Assembly Division in St. Louis and had a cast on his left leg at the time of the beating due to a motorcycle accident, claimed his cast had been stepped on and kicked numerous times

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Now and then a man who was never a nuisance in all his life becomes one at a public meeting by getting up and talking too long.

We have received a copy of a letter sent to Senator Thomas Eagleton concerning another entry to Sikeston and Miner from Interstate 55. We think this is a worthwhile project. The original plan for Interstate 55 was for exits at Interstate 57, Highway 62 (Malone) and county road HH north of Miner. We need this new exit at county road HH to help eliminate the heavy traffic on Highway 62 (Malone). There are over 25,000 cars per day on this road and the number of cars traveling this road continues to grow. We recommend the citizens of this area contact the below named officials and get their support on this project:

DR. SEUSS
I PRESUME

WASHINGTON — My good friend Dr. Seuss wrote a book a few years ago titled "Marvin K. Mooney Will You Please Go Now!" He sent me a copy the other day and crossed out "Marvin K. Mooney" and replaced it with "Richard M. Nixon." It sounded like fun so I asked him if I could reprint it. Please read it aloud.

"Richard M. Nixon will you please go now!
The time has come.
The time has come.
The time is now.
Just go.
Go.
GO!
I don't care how.
You can go by foot.
You can go by cow.
Richard M. Nixon will you please go now!
You can go on skates.
You can go on skis.
You can go in a hat.
But
Please go.
Please!
I don't care.
You can go
By bike.
You can go
On a Zike-Bike
If you like.
If you like
You can go
In an old blue shoe.
Just go, go, GO!
Please do, do, do, DO!
Richard M. Nixon
I don't care how.
Richard M. Nixon
Will you please
GO NOW!
You can go on stilts.
You can go by fish.
You can go in a Crunk- Car
If you wish.
If you wish
You may go
By lion'stail.
Or stamp yourself
And go by mail.
Richard M. Nixon
Don't you know
The time has come
To go, go, GO!
Get on your way!
Please Richard M.!
You might like going in a Zumble- Zem.
You can go by balloon ...
Or broomstick.
Or
You can go by camel
In a bureau drawer.
You can go by Bumble-Boat
. . . or jet.
I don't care how you go.
Just GET!
Richard M. Nixon!
I don't care HOW.
Richard M. Nixon
Will you please
GO NOW!
I said
Go
And
GO
I meant . . .
The time had come
So . . .
Richard WENT."

THOSE STATE FIRINGS

Gov. Bond's use of state reorganization as a reason for replacing numerous members of state commissions is a mistake in terms of public policy, if not of law.

The Governor has replaced half of the Conservation Commission, though that bipartisan commission is considered one of the finest in the country. He has reappointed only four of the six members of the Highway Commission, another excellent agency, and has similarly made changes in the Mental Health Commission and Board of Education.

The basis for these changes is an opinion by an assistant attorney general that executive branch reorganization created new departments, so the Governor could name new departmental officers. This opinion should be tested in court. The Legislature gave no indication that it expected reorganization to lead to wholesale dismissals, especially in established commissions whose members' terms had not expired.

As it is the Governor has laid himself open to Democratic charges that he is remaking agencies to his own liking. Both the bipartisanship and staggered terms of major commissions were designed just so as to prevent a governor from exerting immediate control over them, and to isolate them from politics. Some of the changes in Jefferson City look too much like the kind of politics Gov. Bond has disavowed.

WORLD, POLITICS AND ECONOMICS

According to a world economic service, there are any number of political leaders, government economists and finance ministers throughout the world who should be the target for their citizens' outrage for poor performance.

But perhaps the primary target should be John Maynard Keynes who many give credit (or blame) for the discovery that employment can be boosted and corporate growth stimulated through the expansion of debt. The expansion phase of the debt cycle is fun. One might even call it exhilarating. Companies or economies can grow in leaps and bounds as they finance their growth by incurring more and more debt. But there is a limit to the amount of debt that can be created. There comes a point where there must be a slowdown in the creation of debt. Heaven forbid that there ever is a period when these mammoth debts have to be paid off. If the creation of debts has a multiplier affect on economic activity on the upward side, isn't it also likely that increasing debt liquidation can have a snowballing effect when the financial situation begins to deteriorate? The Keynes disciples don't like to answer that one.

There are early warning signs of the danger facing the world economies at this time. Italy's plight is a case in point. The Italian government has announced that they had been running a balance of payments deficit of $1 billion a month for the first five months of the year and they expect the deficit to total $10 billion for 1974. Many people will say, "Who cares? The Italian government has had a record of instability for many years and this type of performance is to be expected." We don't agree. We've been told and believe that the situation in Italy is important. For one, it is symptomatic of the problems facing all major nations, and there is an important link between all world economies in this era of vastly expanded foreign trade.

Because of the vast expansion of world trade in recent decades, we are today dealing with what can be called a "world economy." No nation is an island in itself. Each nation plays its role in the world scene, but is also dependent on what other nations are doing. Its actions also affect the economic situation in other countries.

As an example, major trading nations see a situation where most of the dollars earned through export sales now must go to a handful of nations providing them with petroleum. There are no funds left to pay for their own import requirements. They have few alternatives. They can take steps to discourage imports. They also can mount an aggressive export drive. But who is going to buy these exports when every other nation is faced with the same problem and is trying to cut down on imports? It merely becomes a vicious circle that the American people should realize and face up to, even if our government wants to soft-pedal it.

ONLY FOLLOWING WHOSE ORDERS?

If some poor jerk down at the bottom of the chain of political command had been saddled with all the blame for Watergate and the case had then been called closed by the very higher-ups who had employed him, there would have been a great outcry from the American people.

Yet there was no such outcry when one lowly first lieutenant was convicted for the My Lai massacre while all those above him were either exonerated or not touched at all.

True, there was an intense emotional reaction when Lt. William L. Calley, alone of all those implicated in My Lai, found him guilty of murdering "not less than 22 Vietnamese." Thus it is not surprising that there were few protests when the Army later cut the sentence to 20 years, or that there are few protests now that Secretary of the Army Howard H. Callaway has further reduced it to 10 years, making Calley eligible for early parole.

What is surprising is that there has been little reaction to Callaway's finding of "mitigating circumstances." —that is, that Calley may not have been aware that he did not have to obey an illegal order.

Who issued the illegal order?

My Lai and Watergate cannot be compared, of course. The one happened far away in a dubious war we would just as soon bury in history. Such things , we say, happen in wars.

The other, however, happened right here, and it struck at the very roots of our political institution. It cannot be ignored.

But history will judge America in both cases. Whatever the fate of Calley, the real judgment in his tragedy is yet to be made.

IS AMERICA REALLY ALL THAT "WASTEFUL"?

Americans are so used to being criticized, or to criticizing themselves, for their affluence that they have come to take it almost for granted that they alone of all the world's peoples are guilty of reckless exploitation of the world's resources.

Rather than being a credit to our technology, ingenuity and energy, our high standard of living has lately become something to reproach ourselves for, a sign of national selfishness — or so some critics would have it.

Yet if affluence is now to be equated with waste, America may actually be among the least "affluent" of nations. For while we may consume a disproportionate share of the world's resources, our consumption on the whole, is efficient, is conducive to even great efficiency, and is a contribution to the progress of the world.

Paradoxically, a nation like India, surely the world's poorest for its size, becomes in these terms truly "affluent."

In that country, millions of sacred cows roam the cities and countryside, consuming resources not adequate to feed the human population, to which 13 million are added each year. There, too, the inefficiencies of a government committed to thorough- going control of every aspect of the economy have barely enabled India to hold its own in the face of population growth.

The spectre of mass famine looms again in the subcontinent, and once again it is the "wasteful" United States, which sent $10 billion in aid between 1950 and 1971, that India is again calling on for help.

Chile, once one of the most stable countries in South America, was brought to the brink of economic collapse by the wasteful socialistic experiments of the late President Allende.

Those countries which practice slash- and - burn agriculture, turning forestland into desert after a few years, or which pour money into prestige items like steel mills or armies while having to import the basic necessities, are guilty of far greater waste than Americans, with all their air - conditioners and high- powered cars.

Even the Soviet Union, after a half- century of supposedly rational state control of the means of production, has still not begun to approach the ability of the American farmer to utilize the land efficiently, and despite its vaunted technology is still unable to provide its people with the kinds of consumer goods available even to the poorest American.

Rather than being a mark of virtue, as those American youths who like to play at being poor seem to believe, national backwardness is in many cases really a mark of national folly.

It is no doubt true that the world will simply be unable to support an expected population of six billion by the end of the century on a scale presently enjoyed by Americans.

It is also true that Americans have wasted much, especially of nonrenewable hydrocarbon sources of energy. But we have begun to realize this, and to take steps to utilize resources more efficiently, and to develop substitute ones.

Whether technology can win the race against soaring world population and finite resources, or whether we will all eventually be reduced to a level of living hopefully somewhat higher than that of India, is the burning question in these last decades of the 20th century.

But those nations who indict America for exploiting the poor of the world and could do worse than copy some of our "wasteful" ways.

FREE MARKET CALLED BEST TO END CRISIS

Secretary of Commerce Frederick B. Dent is against rigid governmental controls on the economy.

He says in a Commerce Today article the oil industry needs the discipline and efficiency imposed by the free market. "Take away that discipline and efficiency, and you have to substitute omniscience, an attribute that is sorely lacking in men and managers."

"Considering the spectacular success we have had with the free enterprise, free market system through out history," the Secretary said, "any suggestion to dismantle it, even in part, or to violate and disrupt its functioning through ever more rigid controls, is a mark of desperation that betrays a fool's reasoning."

THE UNWISDOM OF NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE

The Rand Corporation of California recently issued a report analyzing the likely results of the national health insurance schemes currently being proposed by the Administration and by Sen. Edward Kennedy. Rand's objective analysis indicates that these schemes would do more harm than good.

The report predicts that doctors and clinics would be swamped if such a program were enacted. Many people, used to treating minor illnesses and problems at home, would decide to see a doctor instead since the "government is paying for it." Patients would therefore experience longer delays in receiving appointments and longer lines in doctors' offices.

Faced with more patients, physicians would have less time with each patient, resulting in a lowering of the quality of medical care. At the same time, based on our experience with Medicare and Medicaid programs, we could expect physicians' fees to skyrocket.

The Rand report also denies claims of national health insurance supporters that socialized medicine would increase life expectancy. The report points out that many of the factors causing early death, such as smoking, alcholism and accidents, "are little affected by the availability of health services." In addition, diseases such as cardiovascular disease and cancer "are not dramatically influenced by current forms of therapy."

The report concludes: "Provision of additional health care is not likely to influence mortality statistics..." In fact, by crowding doctors' offices and lowering the quality of care, socialized medicine could well produce the opposite effect.

Inflation Cop-Out?
How Big Federal Bureaucrats Make Petty Cash of U. S. Budget's Billions

There's no reason for the national budget -- the people's money -- to be a murky, almost unintelligible, set of volumes. Why is it so arcane, why is public spending suffering from financial elephantiasis? Will the U. S. really be spending a trillion dollars a year by the onrushing '80s? I asked all these questions, and more, of the one man who should have some answers, Roy Ash, Assistant to the President. Here is his reply written epecially for this column:

By Roy L. Ash
Director, Office of Management and Budget

WASHINGTON — In my time in Washington, I have learned one of the basic principles of spending the taxpayers' money. Everybody wants the total amount spent to be lower, but nobody on the receiving end wants the cut to come out of his piece of the pie. You might say, everybody wants to go to heaven, but nobody wants to die.

I have rarely appeared before a congressional committee concerning the economy without hearing a speech about the need for economy in government. But the same committee member usually then urges full funding or additional funding for some particular program which he believes to be of paramount importance.

This is not hypocrisy, it is a question of perspective. Everyone is convinced that his project is indispensable. But someone, somewhere, has to put all the pieces together and come up with a total budget we can live with.

Until now, this has been done by the executive brance and, as it happens, by the Office of Management and Budget. That doesn't always make me the most popular man in Washington.

But from the viewpoint of the people who pay the taxes and the people who are hurt by inflation, OMB's role is a positive and very necessary role.

Thanks to the new Budget Reform Act, we hope to get a better "handle" on government spending in the future than has been possible until now. This act places appropriate responsibility on the Congress to face up to the realities of fiscal policy and the realities of budgeting. In the future, Congress will be required to vote appropriations only in the context of a total spending ceiling -- which Congress inself must set.

President Nixon has been trying to get this kind of reform ever since he entered the White House. It gives Congress an opportunity to do something more than orate about government spending. And it should prove most helpful to the President in holding down the expenditure of taxpayers' money and in dampening inflation.

President Nixon entered the White House in 1969 convinced by his years of experience in the legislative and executive branches that government reform was urgently needed. Wasteful duplication, overlapping and cross-purposing of federal programs were rampant throughout the system; and the national government was becoming so swollen in size and power as to overbalance the state and local governments and distort the whole federal concept on which the Republic was founded.

With literally thousands of laws on the federal statute books, and government daily becoming more complex and difficult to manage, the President recognized that he had only three choices in the conduct of the public business' to dictate, to abrogate or to delegate.

Wisely, he chose to delegate, to restore a proper share of resources and authority to the state and local governments, as well as to bring better management into the federal structure so that he could delegate to the fullest there.

OMB's responsibility is not merely to advise the President on spending levels for the various government programs but on the effectiveness of those programs.

I am sure we have all seen or heard of examples of wasteful government programming. Some of them are almost beyond belief.

Today, we are passing through a time of turmoil and change. Inflation is a continuing and disturbing threat to all of us. When we talk about government spending and the way it affects the economy, we are not engaging in doubledome rhetoric. We are talking ultimately about the effect on production of goods and services, the pay you take home and the price you pay for food and shelter and all the other necessities.

The President has said many times that fiscal restraint is one of our most essential weapons for combating inflation. He has directed that we do everything we can to hold down Federal spending for the next two years. Our objectives are to reduce the estimated deficit in fiscal year 1975 to the lowest possible level, and to bring the budget into balance in fiscal year 1976.

A stringest fiscal policy may not always sit well with some special groups whose particular interest calls for more, rather than less, govern ment spending. But the President's responsibility is to look after the interest of (SET ITAL) all (END ITAL) American people.

It's also true that the so-called uncontrollable expenditures which have been built into the budget over the years by legislation make balancing a very difficult objective to achieve. In fact, it can be realized only if both the administration and the Congress are steadfast in their determination to succeed. We in the executive branch are firmly committed to do everything we can and to cooperate fully with the Congress to restrain spending. We will not cop out in the battle against inflation.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Reform Watch Report

WASHINGTON — We have set up a special watch on Watergate reforms to keep the public posted on what Congress is doing to prevent future Watergates. Here is our latest report:

With a great outpouring of piety, the House Administration Committee last week finally turned loose the clean election bill. The lofty language, however, was merely the incense that disguised the smell.

Most members of Congress, having been scorched by the Watergate scandals, would like to absolve themselves of these sins before going home to face the voters in November. But they are most reluctant to reform the political system that brought them to power.

If they can get away with it, therefore, they would like to placate the public with remedies that give the appearance rather than the substance of reforms.

The most important reform is the clean election bill. The Senate version contains some strong provisions, which would go a long way toward preventing future Watergate abuses.

There is an unspoken arrangement on Capitol Hill, however, for handling unwanted reforms. The reforms will sail through the Senate with banners flying only to languish and die in the House.

Then in the next session, the process starts all over again. This time the House will pass the reforms, which will suddenly encounter procedural obstacles in the Senate. Thus, the individual members of both houses are able to vote for reforms in full confidence that they will never be adopted.

Under this arrangement, the Senate clean election bill struck a snag many months ago in the House Administration Committee. Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, bumped the bill along like a frog filled with buckshot. "He dawdled, fussed, fumed and screamed," one committee member confided to my reporter Jim Moorhead.

"I did the best I could," Hays countered. The pressures of the Watergate disclosures compelled him at last to let the bill out of his clutches.

But it is now safely lodged in the logjam of the House impeachment debate. "I wouldn't despair if the bill didn't come up until September," says Hays. He promised that "it won't go down the drain."

Even if the House bill should pass, however, it has been neatly tailored to protect the incumbents. For appearances sake, it contains most of the strong Senate provisions. But the reforms would be enforced by officials who take their orders from the people they would be expected to regulate.

Under the House bill, the supervisory board would include the clerk of the House and the secretary of the Senate. Not only are they subject to the will of the incumbents they would supervise, but they would have no power to prosecute violators. The regulations of the supervisory board would also be subject to a Senate-House veto.

We will continue to keep a watch on these reforms and to report to the voters before November what their electeed representatives do about them. For we believe there is nothing wrong with the political system that a good election won't cure.

SOVIET COOPERATION: The Soviets, not wishing to jeopardize their ties with world revolutionary movements, have opposed strong international anti- hijacking action. But behind the scenes, the Soviets are cooperating with the West to waylay air terrorists.

Soviet officials alerted Western governments, for example, on the movements of three Japanese terrorists, one of them a member of the extremist "Japanese Red Army," who were allegedly plotting a hijacking.

The story of this undercover Soviet cooperation is containedin secret intelligence reports obtained by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., who is seeking stronger measures to curb air piracy.

Soviet agents, according to one intelligence cable, heard reports the Japanese Red Army activist, Okudaira Fusako, had gone to Hong Kong. They reported that two other "Japanese radical youths, Okita Kozen and Sasaki Michihiro" had made a mysterious trip from Tokyo to Bangkok.

Although the Soviets couldn't substantiate all these reports, they obligingly gave them "wide dissemination" through "Soviet officials" overseas.

The intelligence reports show that the names of the three potential hijackers were divulged "In Malaysia, Laos and Senegal by Soviet Embassy and Aeroflot (airline) officials," all as a courtesy to these lands.

Obviously, the Russians had good information. On July 15, a 26- year- old Japanese hijacker, Akira Iwakoshi, held a Japanese airliner as ransom. His intent was to free the jailed leader of the Japanese Red Army. When he failed, he slit his throat.

Footnote: In a letter to House Commerce Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., Murphy said he had received information from Federal Aviation Administration sources that four international airports are "wide open to terrorist attacks." Murphy identified them as London's Heathrow airfield Copenhagen, Buenos Aires and Panama City.

'Mama' Cass Elliott dies in London

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top pathologist said after an autopsy today that further tests would be needed to determine how "Mama" Cass Elliot, the sweet-voiced 238-pound pop singer, died.

Prof. Keith Simpson gave no details of his examination, but said the singer did not appear to have died from natural causes. He did not elaborate.

Police said an inquest will be held at Westminister coroner's court Wednesday.

Simpson's statement came only hours after the singer's doctor, Anthony Greenburg, told newsmen: "I think the post-mortem will probably show that she died as a result of choking on a sandwich while lying in bed and inhaling her own vomit.

"She was a very big lady and I could not rule out the possibility of a heart attack."

Dot MacLeod, the singer's secretary, said she found the 33-year-old star's body Monday afternoon slightly propped up in her double bed in the six-room apartment she was occupying during engagements in Britain. The television set was on, and a ham sandwich and a soft drink were beside her pillow, Miss MacLeod said.

"She had been dead for a considerable time before her body was found," Dr. Greenburg said.

The singer, who rose to fame in the 1960s as the leading Mama of The Mamas and the Papas, completed a two-week engagement at the Palladium Saturday night. She was preparing to start a tour of Britain.

"This last week was the happiest I have ever seen her," said her manager, Allan Carr. "She told me after she had received a standing ovation at the Palladium: 'I feel that I have given the best of myself 23 times, but I have never felt better about anything I have ever done professionally.'"

Dr. Greenburg said she had been dieting and had "been doing quite well." She told an interviewer from the Times of London a few days ago she had lost 80 pounds in the past year.

Miss Elliot's 7-year-old daughter by singer James R. Hendricks, Vanessa, was reported with her grandmother in Baltimore, Md.

Born Ellen Naomi Cohen in Baltimore, she grew up in Virginia and Maryland and took the name Cassandra Elliot before going to New York at 19 to try for a stage career.

In 1971, she married a Bavarian baron, Donald von Wiedenam.

Portageville firm named in suit

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., filed suit Monday in U. S. District Court against Southwestern Director, Inc. of Portageville, Mo., accusing it of violating copyrights by reproducing several of Bell's East Arkansas directories.

Bell asked the court to enjoin the Missouri firm from printing, publishing or selling the defendants,"Area- Wide Phone Book Serving Forrest City, Brinkley, Marianna, and Wynne, Ark."

Bell alleged the material in the directory's publication was copied mostly from Bell's copyrighted directories in those cities served by the Bell System.

The suit asked damages be paid of not less than $250 for each copyright infringed or $1 for each infringing copy of directory.

William R. McIntoch, the Missouri's firm's president, and Blanch McIntoch, the firm's secretary, both of Portageville, were named defendants.

Turkey, Greece near agreement

By The Associated Press

Turkey and Greece have reached a compromise agreement in principle for ending their military showdown on Cyprus, a spokesman for the Turkish delegation to the Geneva peace talks reported today.

He predicted the accord would be signed this afternoon.

But Greek Foreign inister George Mavros told newsmen that, while he is hopeful, there were still a number of problems to resolve before a truce could be signed.

The Turkish spokesman said the exact wording of the agreement was being worked out, including a compromise on the potentially explosive issue of Turkish troop withdrawals. He indicated the Turks would agree to wording in the agreement that would speak of Turkish troop reductions, rather than withdrawals.

A Greek delegate said, however, that the new Turkish formula commits the Ankara government to withdraw its invasion force when a final political settlement is reached on the Mediterranean island. The Turkish military presence thereby would be officially defined as temporary, thus saving the Greeks face.

Once an interim military agreement is concluded in Geneva, the Cyprus peace talks will be able to advance to a second stage to deal with the island republic's political future. This would include an overhauling of the Cyprus constitution as well as the 1960 agreement whereby Greece, Turkey and Britain guaranteed Cyprus independence.

These talks could begin toward the end of the first week in August, the Turkish spokesman said.

VACATION HOUSE & TAX DEFERMENT

Among the benefits of being a homeowner are the unique tax advantages available. One of them to be wary of is the provision which allows you to defer paying income tax on any profit made from the sale of your home if you buy a more expensive one within a certain amount of time. It does not apply in all cases.

For example, if you sell a vacation home at a $2,000 profit and promptly buy a much more expensive place, can you defer paying the income tax on the profit? The answer is no!

This tax break is available only when both the house sold and the house purchased serve as your principle residence. A vacation house doesn't qualify. However, if you owned the dwelling for more than six months before selling it, the $2,000 is a long- term capital gain. If not, it's a short- term capital gain, which is usually taxed as ordinary income.

Lessons for Young Bicyclists to Learn

Chief Leon R. Culp
Sikeston Police Department

Lesson No. 13 - Lane Changing

We have now arrived at the final lesson....No. 13! I want to go over one other important subject with you that we have not touched on...lane changing.

Lane changing is when you are riding down the street in the right hand portion of your side of the street, and you want to change to the left hand portion, or the left lane, in preparation for making a left turn. This is where most bicyclists become very careless. They ride along looking over their shoulders to see what is coming from behind, and pay little attention to what they are approaching in front of them. This is hazardous!

The proper way to change lanes, when you are riding a bicycle, is to LISTEN first. You can usually hear a car approaching from the rear and if you hear traffic close behind, do not bother taking the time to look behind you....WAIT until it sounds like there are no cars there. (You should avoid taking your eyes off the road in front of you as much as possible.) If it sounds clear behind you, then look, and if it is clear make your left turn ARM SIGNAL, before changing lanes. Making the arm signal is of great importance....DO NOT forget this! Not only does your left turn arm signal tell the drivers behind you that you are intending to turn left, but it tells others ahead of you, and this too is important!

When you have made your left turn arm signal for about ½ block, if traffic behind you is still clear, or well back of you, slowly ease over into the left lane. NEVER do this quickly or without looking behind you over your shoulder, or without giving your left turn hand signal!

The same procedure holds true if you are for some reason riding in the left lane and want to change to the right lane, to get back close to the curb or to make a right hand turn.

Now, let's say you want to turn left, you have gone through the above procedure to change lanes, to get into left turn position, and you are waiting in the left lane for the traffic light to change so you can make your turn. When the light changes, remember, the traffic coming toward you must be allowed to pass first, even if you must wait while the traffic light goes through another complete series of changes! DO NOT attempt to go ahead of the oncoming traffic! If there is a left turn green arrow, of course, then you may proceed as soon as the light changes and the arrow comes on.

IMPORTANT: While making your left hand turn, STAY in the same lane you were in when you started your turn. If you allow yourself to ease over into the next lane to your right, you may go directly in front of a car that is also making a left turn. After your turn is completed is time enough to start glancing over your right shoulder, and making your right turn signal, to get yourself back near the curb for regular riding. ALWAYS use your hand signals when changing lanes....this is the law, and it is the ONLY safe way to change lanes!

QUESTIONS	YES	NO
To change lanes you must first look over your shoulder, then if safe, use hand signal, then ease slowly into the desired lane.	___	___
If too much traffic is coming from behind you, you must wait until it passes before you change lanes.	___	___
When making a left turn you MUST stay in the same lane to complete your turn as you were in when you started.	___	___

I have enjoyed providing this training course for young bicyclists to learn the rules of the road. It is my hope that each and everyone following this series has learned a lot about safe biking and respect for others on the streets and highways.

When you have completed this lesson, and it has been corrected by one of your parents, send all of your completed lessons to my office. Enclose a letter from the parent who has been helping you with your lessons, stating that you have completed the course satisfactorily and learned your lessons well. You will receive in return a handsome, wallet size card to carry with you, showing you are a qualified bicycle operator. Good luck and happy biking!

Ann Landers

Hubby needs a gift

Dear Ann Landers: I am 55 years old and have been married for 30 years. I have given my wife 33 birthday gifts, 30 anniversary presents, 28 Mother's Day gifts, and an uncounted number of "just because I love you" gifts. My wife has never given me a gift of any kind.

This woman is wonderful, devoted, kind and gentle. I love her dearly. She has told me every Christmas when she opens her gifts from me and the children, that men do not attach any importance to gifts, which is why she has never bought me anything and never will.

We have a joint checking account and she carries charge plates for at least seven stores. I don't need anything except the pleasure of receiving a gift from her. I would cherish the wildest, most hideous necktie ever made, and I'd wear it with pride if my wife bought it for me.

Call me childish if you like, but this is the way I feel. Can you find room in your column for my letter? It may help educate other wives who think as she does. I could never bring myself to tell her how I feel and I'm too embarrassed to sign my name. Just call me -- Gift- Rapped

Dear Rapped: Any man who would harbor a secret complaint for 30 years must love his hair shirt.

I suggest that you hand your wife this column and tell her you wrote the letter. I hope she will then go out and buy you the wildest, most hideous necktie ever made.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Brock steals 700th base

CHICAGO (AP) — Lou Brock is far ahead of schedule- so much so that one of these days he'll be shooting for Maury Wills' record and one of these years he might even challenge Ty Cobb's stolen- base mark.

"Yes, I remember once saying that 700 stolen bases was my goal," Brock said Monday after stealing No. 700 of his career and his 65th of the season in an 11-2 St. Louis romp over the Chicago Cubs.

"I'm surprised it came this quickly, especially considering the start I had last year," said Brock. "I was out on 10 of my first 23 attempts. That was when 700 looked tough. Then I stole 60 of my next 70. That turned it around."

Brock, who turned 35 last month, avoids discussing the records of Wills' 104 stolen bases in one season and Cobb's career mark of 892.

He became the fifth man in history to steal 700. Ahead of him are Honus Wagner with 701, whom he'll pass any day. Next season he'll catch Max Carey, who holds the National League mark of 738, and Eddie Collins who is No. 2 on the alltime list with 743. Far ahead is Cobb, who didn't retire until he was 42.

"I don't see myself playing at 42 or even 40," said Brock. "I'd have to say 38 is a possibility.

"No, honestly, I don't remember the first base I stole," said Brock. "All I remember is I was with the Cubs and I was wearing No. 24."

Brock was traded by the Cubs to the Cardinals in 1964 for Ernie Broglio, who turned out to be a sore-armed pitcher who rapidly faded from the scene.

Brock went on to lead the Cardinals to a world championship that year and has been the motivating factor in Cardinal successes ever since. But has been especially tough on his old teammates.

The game was halted and the grounds crew dug up Brock's 700th stolen base. He'll probably put it alongside No. 600, which he also stole in Wrigley Field - against the Cubs last season.

He says he steals on the pitchers and not the catchers and gives a lot of credit to Ted Sizemore, who bats behind him in the Cardinal lineup.

"What has it been?" said Brock "four years now that Ted's batting behind me? We're developing into a team. Remember, Wills had Jim Gilliam behind him and it took them time to develop. Same here. The No. 2 hitter has to learn the idiosyncracies of the catcher. I have to deal in body motion and idiosyncracies of the pitcher."

The victory was the seventh in the last eight games for the resurging Cardinals who rattled out 18 hits and had at least two base runners in each inning.

Bake McBride had three hits while everyone else in the starting lineup, including pitcher John Curtis, had two each. Ken Reitz hit his fourth homer in the fifth inning and Joe Torre slugged his seventh in the seventh inning.

Sizemore, Ted Simmons, Toree and Reitz each drove in two runs as Curtis, 5-10, was the winner but again failed to finish. He needed ninth inning help from Orlando Pena.

Burt Hooton, 3-10, was the loser and failed to finish. He needed ninth inning help from Orlando Pena.

Burt Hooton, 3-10, was the loser and failed to to three innings. Steve Swisher hit his third homer for the Cubs in the fourth inning and also singled home a run in the ninth inning.

In the Cardinal half of the fourth inning, Cub first baseman Andre Thornton and umpire Billy Williams collided. Thornton had to leave the game with a brain concussion. Williams stayed on but he also left in the eighth inning with a headache.

Parma, Tri- County advance

Tri- County made rather easy work of Dexter while Parma struggled to pull out an opening win during first night action in the Sikeston Jr. Babe Ruth Invitational baseball tournament at VFW stadium Monday.

Parma held off a seventh inning Charleston rally to preserve a 5-4 win while tri-county took care of Dexter, 14-4, in five innings.

Tournament play resumes tonight at 7 p.m. when New Madrid goes against Sikeston Reds. East Prairie squares off against the Sikeston Aces at 9 p.m.

Tony Garcia fashioned a six hitter for Parma, who scored single runs in each of the first three innings and added a pair in the sixth while limiting Charleston to runs in the first and fourth and a pair in the seventh.

McIntosh led Parma's offense with a two for two performance with the bat and scored two runs along with Chamberland. Garcia slammed a triple for Parma while A. Gary connected for a three bagger and Gordon hit a double.

McElmurry and Hamm had two hits each in leading a nine hit Tri- County charge. Hamm scored four runs to back the four hit pitching performance of Naile.

Tri- County broke a 3-3 deadlock with a five run third and added five more in the fourth before ending the game with a single tally in the last of the fifth.

Matthews tripled for Dexter and the games only extra base hit.

POPLAR BLUFF — Sikeston entries into the Poplar Bluff 11-12 year old little league invitational baseball tournament scored rather easy wins in opening night play Monday. The All-Stars set down Piedmont 7-2 behind the three hit pitching performance of Self and Campbell while the Aces buried Ellsinore 12-2 in four innings.

Dock and Harper paced a 10- hit attack with two hits each. Crites had two of Piedmont's three safeties.

The Aces made the most of six hits in disposing of Ellsinore in four innings, scoring four runs in the first and adding a single tally in the third before ending the game with a seven run fourth to give King the victory. G. Laseter and Brashears homered for the Aces while Lewis Copeland and J. Laseter hit doubles. Brashears had two of the Aces six hits.

Tournament play resumes tonight with the Aces facing Dexter at 7:30 and the All-Stars going against Poplar Bluff at 9 p.m.

BUFFALO — The Buffalo Bills of the National Football League acquired quarterback Scott Hunter from the Green Bay Packers in exchange for running back Pete Van Valkenberg and defensive tackle Steve Okoniewski.

Dexter upsets Stars

Dexter knocked off the Sikeston all- stars 6-5 and Poplar Bluff crushed Chaffee 16-4 in opening round play of the 9-10 year old Sikeston Little League Invitational baseball tournament Monday.

Tournament play resumes at 6:30 p.m. when Parma meets the Poplar Bluff Mules. Scott City battles the Sikeston Aces at 8 p.m.

Dexter rallied for three runs in the top of the sixth and made the most of three hits to upset the town favorites.

Sikeston took a 1-0 lead in the first and added two more in the last of the third before Dexter put together a three run fourth for a tie. The stars charged back with single runs in the fourth and fifth, but failed to push any runs across in the sixth.

Becker claimed the win, holding the potent Sikeston lineup to four hits while Hurley absorbed the loss. Hedrick and Heitman connected for key doubles for the Dexter Stars while Perry hit one for the Sikeston Stars.

Parks homered and hit a pair of doubles to lead a nine hit Poplar Bluff attack that produced 16 runs.

The game was rather close until the fifth as Bluff held a 7-4 advantage before sending home nine runs in the fifth for their run-away win.

Bess had two doubles and Hefner one while Talkington tripled for the winners. Shy and Yount doubled for Chaffee.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, July 30, the 211th day of 1974. There are 154 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1909, the U.S. government bought its first airplane. It was a Wright biplane costing $31,000.

On this date:

In 1718, the founder of Pennsylvania, William Penn, died in England.

In 1863, the American auto pioneer, Henry Ford, was born in Greenfield, Mich.

In 1916, before the U.S. entered World War I, German saboteurs blew up a munitions plant on Black Tom Island near Jersey City, N.J..

In 1918, the American poet who wrote "Trees," Sgt. Joyce Kilmer, was killed in action in France.

In 1953, race riots broke out in Chicago's Trumbull Park housing project after a black family moved into the previously all-White community.

Ten years ago: French President Charles de Gaulle proposed that the United States, the Soviet Union, Communist China and France agree to get out of Indochina as a move to end fighting in South Vietnam and Laos.

Five years ago: Spain's Prince Juan Carlos took the oath as Generalissimo Francisco Franco's designated successor and vowed loyalty to the Spanish system set up by Franco.

One year ago: The Senate Watergate Committee and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox served subpoenas on President Nixon after he refused to release take recording sought in the Watergate case.

Today's birthdays: Former baseball star Don Drysdale is 38 years old.

ScottCo students cited

COLUMBIA -- Twenty-three students from Scott County are among nearly 12,000 recognized for outstanding classwork during the past academic year at University of Missouri-Columbia.

The Scott Countieans include:

Kenneth J. Barkett, Julia Kathryn Crader, Jennifer O. Drumm, Jan Sargent Felker, Anne K. Heckemeyer, Janet Lois Hedrick, Joseph Hilpert Jacob, Gregory M. Larance, Gary Ray Long, Philip F. Matthews, Gary Lee McDonald, Priscilla Nunnelee, Wayne T. Sanderson, King E. Sidwell and Charles Ray Stamp Jr. of Sikeston.

James Scott Arnold and Christine F. Nebel of Benton; Joyce Marian Capshaw, George Raymond Cox, Charles M. Heuring and Joan Marie Scheeter of Chaffee; Carolyn N. Albrecht of Illmo; and Ruth Ann Harris of Oran.

The students were named by campus divisions which designate honor rolls or dean's honor lists for both semesters.

Honor lists vary somewhat among divisions, but students must have high grade averages in courses taken during the semester and a minimum number of scheduled class hours per week. Grade averages required range from 2.75 to 3.25, depending in the division (4.0 is the highest attainable).

No honor lists are issued by the School of Medicine, the Graduate School, the School of Library and Informational Science or School of Veterinary Medicine. Students shown as enrolled in these schools are receiving recognition from UMC schools in which they were previously enrolled or hold dual enrollment.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"Whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Philippians 4:8)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, thank You for the lovely memories You have given me; for the good reports I hear of Your servants in other places; for the encouraging opportunities I have today to spread Your love. Touch my life so that Your fragrance will spill from it to others. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Political sign posters warned of hazards

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) -- The state's chief highway engineer Robert Hunter issued a warning Friday to political candidates and their supporters to refrain from posting signs on the highway right-ofway.

"Some of the districts were having trouble with it," Hunter said, adding that the warning was primarily in the interest of safety.

features central air conditioning and heating, finished walls and carpeting throughout.

The bedrooms are decorated for a master bedroom, a boy's room and a girl's room. The house is furnished with drapery, a stove, garbage disposal and dishwasher. The only room not carpeted is the utility room.

Besides three large bedrooms (the smallest is 12 by 14 feet) the house includes two and one-half baths, a utility room, kitchen, living room, dining room, family room and an outside storage room adjoining the two- car carport.

Land reports that the house has "lots of closet space" and more than the average number of electrical wall outlets. All clothes closets are walk-in closets with one-third more closet space than the average sized closet of today, according to Land. The closets also feature three levels of bars, which provides more hanging room.

Four sliding doors — one to each of the three baths and another to a large storage closet designed to hold out - of - season clothes — provide more wall space than conventional doors. Bathrooms also each feature a heater - lamp as an added touch.

Kitchen cabinets are constructed of ash with a walnut stain and provide more space than factory built cabinets because they extend all the way to the ceiling instead of the custormary 16-inch drop from the ceiling most factory built cabinets have.

All shelves in the cabinets are adjustable. The kitchen also features a large pantry for storage of canned goods and other items.

The family room features birch paneling. Other walls in the house are painted or papered.

The utility room includes a broom closet and plenty of storage room above the space for a washer and dryer.

Another special feature in the home are cutoff faucets on all water pipes, permitting individual pipes to be turned off for repairs without interrupting the water supply to the rest of the house.

Windows in the house are of double insulated glass, while the ceiling has six inches of insulation and walls have four inches — above the normal amount of insulated added during contract building, Land said.

Sliding glass patio doors lead to a 10 by 20 - foot concrete patio, at the back of the house. A concrete front porch is 8 by 20 feet.

All four sides of the house have outside faucets and plug-ins for convenience.

Seniors of the 1973-74 class, who helped construct the house, were Delmer Agnew and Elmer Agnew of East Prairie and John Miller, Harry Pratt and Nelson Johnson of Sikeston.

First- year students were Tommy Bruenderman, LeRoy Buttry, John Haas and Dennis Rapert of Charleston; Mike Lacy of Morehouse; Mickell Long of Bell City; David Davis of East Prairie; and Eddie Cantrell, Curtis Causey, Mark Fausett, Larry Jackson, Billy Lewis, Kenneth Sadler and Tommy Duncan of Sikeston.

Front of farm tractor stolen

BENTON — The front end of a tractor was reported stolen from the K. M. Streeter farm on Painton Route One, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today.

He said no value was given for the front end.

A similar theft was reported in Bollinger County, Dennis said.

during the incident. His left eye was swollen completely shut the next day when his parents came to see him.

"The prisoners were drunk," New said. "They were drinking MD20-20 wine, and Brimer and Smith had some amphetamines."

"Mallett was the victim of a second beating when Dunn and Butler returned," New claimed. "Brimer beat Terry (Mallett) as Dunn and Butler asked questions relating to drugs: 'Where did you get it? We know you're tied up in it! Where is it coming from?'

"Each time Terry would say he didn't know, he would get hit again," New pointed out.

"I think they realized by then that I wasn't John," New said.

Those were the only questions relating to drugs the pair received while in jail, according to New. "Neither sheriff nor his deputies asked us any questions," New related.

"We saw the sheriff, (W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, Jr.) as we came in that night and saw him the next afternoon, and he didn't ask us one question about drugs," New noted.

"The prisoners apologized to us for the beating the next day after they had sobered up, and one of them even said that he wouldn't do that anymore," New said. "Smith told us that he would get some time off for performing the beating."

James New, father of the alleged victim, went to the jail May 31 and asked to see his son and to talk to the sheriff.

"The jailer told me that I couldn't see him, that visiting hours were Saturday and pointed to a sign. I told him that my son had been beaten and I wanted to see him. He then made a call and allowed me to see Jim," New's father recalled.

"The jailer said the sheriff was asleep and that he couldn't wake him up," he added.

The pair was released from custody about 3 p.m. May 31.

New was questioned by highway patrol officer Cpl. Alvin Mills, who wanted information about a car New had in his possession.

"He said the car was stolen," New recalled. "I told him I had bought the body in St. Charles and had put another engine in it. After I had showed him the bill of sales and title, he released my car back to me a few days later," New said.

"We thought you all were messed up in this deal, but apparently you're not ... you're free to go," Ramsey told the pair.

New said Ramsey didn't say anything about the bruises and black eye when he talked with him the day of his release.

Sheriff Ramsey confirmed today that New and Mallett had been prisoners in the New Madrid County jail. He said they were arrested on suspicion, but he could not recall the date of arrest.

Ramsey said he did not see Mallet and New when they were arrested but he saw them when they were released. As to their physical condition upon release, Ramsey said," Mallett was allright, but New had a light black eye. He may have had a fight with one of the prisoners."

The sheriff also recalled that Glen Brimer and a man named Chappel had been prisoners in the jail. He said Chappel was arrested for parole violation on a warrant from parole officer Gary Miller of Dexter.

When asked if beatings had ever occurred in the New Madrid County jail, Ramsey said, "Occasionally, fighting between the prisoners breaks out. When it does, we segregate them and move them around."

The sheriff denied that he or any of the jail officers had ever issued instructions to have prisoners beaten.

Moore's burglarized

Burglars broke into Moore's Ace Hardware, 118 N. Madrid St., and took $1,391.59 worth of merchandise, according to police.

Police said burglars climbed up a utility pole on the south side of the building between 5 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. today and climbed through a window about 10 feet above the ground.

Taken were 11 guns, five watches, one stereo component set, two pocket radios, one digital clock radio, one cassette tape recorder, one turntable, $12.60 cents in coins and $31 in bills.

An eight- foot hydroplane racing boat belonging to Drew Matthews, was taken from the rear of his home at 710 Hickory between 11 p.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday.

The red, white, and blue boat is valued at $250.

Frohna youth hurt in mishap

A Frohna youth was seriously hurt in a motorcycle accident and five persons received minor injuries in two other traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Monday, the highway patrol reported today.

Ronald Wayne Stellings, 18, received serious injuries at 4:30 p.m. on Route A in Altenberg when his motorcycle struck the front of a car driven by Wilbert Henry Lueders, 69, of Altenberg. A patrol spokesman said Lueders was driving on the wrong side of the road in an attempt to park on the shoulder when the accident occurred.

Stellings was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Three members of a Perryville family were injured at 7:30 p.m. on Route J seven miles northeast of Fredericktown when the driver lost control of the car, which ran off the road and struck a creek bank.

Kenneth Lloyd Newell, 19, his wife, Karen Sue Newell, 16, and their seven-month- old daughter Melissa received minor injuries and were taken to Perry County Hospital in Perryville.

A two- car accident at 9:35 p.m. 18 miles south of Fredericktown on Highway 67 resulted in two minor injuries.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Ernest Leroy Green tried to pass a car driven by Howard Lee Barry, 54, of Irondale as Barry was making a left turn. Barry's car ran off the road and struck a tree.

Barry and his wife, Eva Lorine Barry, 49, were slightly injured but were not hospitalized.

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Mayor Jimmie Kerr says how to explain an early return home from a City Council meeting to his wife can be a major problem.

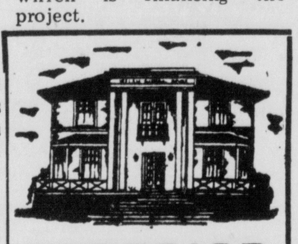

The council held a meeting which lasted until 11:35 p.m. But two weeks later the session was adjourned at 8:10 p.m.

approximately $38,000 was approved for the cleaning out Hayden Ditch two miles west of Oran. Although the court believes this is an adequate amount, Lankford said the court does not think the $11,800 approved to clean out Ramsey Creek, located between Kelso and New Hamburg, and $13,000 for Caney Creek, south of New Hamburg is enough.

Lankford said some of the SCS board members will hold a meeting Thursday to request additional funds from the federal government which is financing the project.

A. Decidedly dainty. Solid color polyester flare pants and top with print collar and long sleeves. Lace at cuffs, collar, waist. Navy Blue, Berry.

B. Swingingest new style. Button front polyester jacquard top has full long sleeves, elastic waist. Solid color flare pants. Green, Burgundy.

C. Latest word in young styles. 50% cotton and 50% polyester jacquard pants. Acrylic rib knit top has puffed long sleeves. In red or Blue.

D. It's the layered look. Jacquard slacks worn with long sleeve V-neck top. Mock turtle neck insert adds dash. Choose Blue or Berry.
